Michigan Crackdown Scaring Off Cheaters

By MALCOLM JOHNSON
Associated Press Writer
LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Although nobody's going to jail, state officials contend their crackdown on Medicaid and welfare fraud is scaring off a lot of would-be cheaters. Officials admit there is no way to determine how much the investigations are in fact deterring welfare cheaters and medical professionals tempted to bilk the Medicaid system. And there have been few arrests, especially for Medicaid fraud. But officials maintain the grand jury probes, begun early this year, have deterred both potential welfare cheaters and those doctors, pharmacists, labs and other medical providers who may be tempted to pad their Medicaid bills. Medicaid, which is reimbursed by the government, pays the health care bills for low-income persons. And officials say they see evidence of the investigations' effect in reduced Medicaid expenditures and lowered error rates in welfare.

"The word is out in the street," Atty. Gen. Frank Kelley said in an interview. "It's already had a deterrent effect. And it doesn't take much to scare 47,000 doctors."

The probes have not produced a wholesale housecleaning in either Medicaid abuse or welfare cheating. According to reports filed last month with the attorney general, the investigations have resulted in the following:

—Welfare fraud: Twenty-two people have been arrested and 17 sentenced for obtaining welfare benefits to which they were not entitled. Investigators have interviewed more than 800 persons in the probe. Almost $80,000 in repayments have been ordered, along with hundreds of dollars in court costs and attorney fees. Department of Social Services employees also are under scrutiny for possible fraud.

—Medicaid fraud: Seventy-six cases of alleged fraud have been investigated, with 48 remaining active. Six persons or corporations have been indicted. There has been one conviction. One case was dismissed and others are in various stages of court action. Some $50,000 in Medicaid funds have been recovered in cases not prosecuted.

Meanwhile, federal officials also are involved, handling

River Plunge Kills Six Youths In Car

By ASSOCIATED PRESS

State police were investigating the circumstances in the weekend deaths of six Saginaw youths aged 11 to 16 who drowned when the car they were riding in plunged into the Cass River in Bridgeport Township.

The tragedy gave Michigan a weekend highway death toll of at least 22.

The driver of the car, 17-year-old Charles Marcoux, managed to open a door and swim to safety as it sunk in eight feet of water, state police at the Bridgeport post said. The accident occurred at about 7 a.m. Sunday.

He told authorities he dove into the water several times in a futile effort to rescue his companions, then ran to a nearby gas station for help.

The bodies of his six passengers were still in the car, a Chevrolet Vega, when it was pulled from eight feet of water. Investigating troopers said the river was about seven feet from the shoulder of the road, and there was no guard rail.

Authorities said the driver apparently lost control of the vehicle and drove off the old Fayette Bridge in a secluded area in Saginaw County. They said there was no indication anyone in the car had been drinking or taking drugs.

State police identified the victims as Lorena LaPorte, 13; Rose Ann Zapata, 14; Jessica Rivera, 16, and her sister, Denita Martinez, 11; David Vargas, 15; and David Herrera, 15. The driver said he picked up Miss Zapata and her friends at about midnight.

The accident was one of four reported multiple fatalities which occurred in Michigan between 6 p.m. Friday and Sunday midnight.

Among the four was a Friday night broadside crash on M-60 in Cass County that claimed the lives of two Niles youths, Thomas Fuller, 19, and Michael Jeffrey, 18.

"To suggest that this guarantees the Campbell Works a significant chance of survival would cruelly arouse false hopes," said Frank J. Coughlin, general manager of Bohse's fastener division at Van Nuys, Calif.

William J. Brown, publisher of the Youngstown Vindicator, said Coughlin contacted him and Hunter on Friday to inquire about the steelmaking facilities.

Brown said he had no idea how serious the Japanese inquiry was, but told a reporter that "since it's a rather desperate situation, we're willing to try."

Youngstown Sheet & Tube has said its workers will be idled by a shift in most of the Campbell Works operations to Indiana Harbor, near Chicago.

Coughlin said that in a favorable climate the Sheet & Tube property could turn out to be an "attractive investment."

He did not say what Japanese steel firm, if any, was interested in the property.

Wife Of H-P Publisher Dies

Mrs. Mary Louise Banyon, 60, of 2548 US-33 North, Benton Harbor, died Saturday at 3:05 p.m. at Mercy Hospital after an illness of two months.

Mrs. Banyon was assistant secretary and assistant treasurer of The Palladium Publishing Company of which her husband, Willard J. Banyon, is president.

Palladium publishes The Herald-Palladium and operates radio stations WHFB-AM and WHFB-FM.

Mrs. Banyon was a member of the Mercy Hospital Auxiliary, the University of Michigan Alumnae Club, Indian Hills Garden Club, Ina Harper Study Club, and First Congregational Church of Benton Harbor.

She was born July 13, 1917, at Paw Paw, the daughter of Guy Warner and Mabel Showerman Warner. She was a graduate of Paw Paw High School, attended Kalamazoo College, and in 1939 was graduated from University of Michigan. She married Willard J. Banyon Oct. 7, 1939, at Paw Paw.

Surviving besides her husband are two sons, Stanley W. Banyon, Benton Harbor, and Stephen M. Banyon, a daughter, Mrs. Richard (Linda) Lewis, Portland, Ind., and two grandchildren.

Funeral services will be held at 2 p.m. Tuesday at First Congregational Church with Dr. Randolph Hellwig officiating. Burial will be in Crystal Springs Cemetery.

Friends may call at the Fairplain Chapel of Florin Funeral Service until noon Tuesday.

Memorials may be made to Mercy Hospital Auxiliary.

The Herald-Palladium offices in Benton Harbor and St. Joseph will be closed from 1:30-3:30 p.m. Tuesday for the funeral.

Anchorage, Alaska, said the 4½-day ordeal aboard the plane was "pretty horrendous, terribly, terribly brutal, but I wouldn't have let those guys go."

"The minute we give in to criminals we're finished, and that's just what we're doing," said Caldwell in a telephone interview from the Holy Family Hospital.

"While I was on the plane, I thought, 'This is war, and even if we're casualties, we shouldn't give in.'"

"Somewhere we've got to have enough guts to stand up for what we believe in."

Caldwell, a missionary for the Bahai sect, said the five hijackers were "mostly boys," but "anyone who thinks these Communies were playing games, they should have been on that plane."

"These guys called it war and I agree," he continued. But "they didn't want to die; they wouldn't have blown up the plane with themselves on it. They were too cocky for that."

Caldwell said the ordeal aboard the plane was "pretty horrendous. ... You were living in your own hell, the lack of air, the stench, the complete unjustified brutality."

"I thought I had lived under pretty tough conditions, but this was the toughest living I've every had. And for others it was much worse."

"I saw a Saudi man pistol-whipped twice. Other passengers were clubbed on the head. It was unjustified. We were all cooperating. There was no rhyme or reason to it."

He added that in the hospital he met a Japanese passenger who had been pistol-whipped and had severe head wounds.

Caldwell said he was hospitalized for acute constipation and a painful back ailment. He said he was leaving the hospital today and planned to fly to Bangkok.

BULLETIN

NEW DELHI, India (AP) — Indira Gandhi, prime minister of India for 11 years until her election defeat last March, was arrested today on charges of misusing her position.

Eyewitnesses said a large squad of agents from India's central bureau of investigation took Mrs. Gandhi, 58, into custody at her New Delhi home.

Mrs. Gandhi was charged with acquiring 104 vehicles through misuse of her official position, India's national news agency reported.

Tin Magnate's Child Abducted

GENEVA, Switzerland (AP) — Two men kidnaped the 5-year-old daughter of tin millionaire Georges Ortiz-Patino today as the family chauffeur was driving her to school.

Police said the two men grabbed Crazie Ortiz-Patino shortly after she was driven away from her parents' home in the Vandoeuvres suburb of Geneva and took her off in an Alfa-Romeo with Geneva, Italy, license plates.

The chauffeur tried to stop the kidnapping and was hospitalized with minor head injuries.

The Alfa-Romeo was abandoned a short distance from the scene of the kidnapping.

A police spokesman said there has been no word from the kidnapers. Roadblocks were thrown up at all posts on the nearby French frontier and checks were being made at the Geneva airport and railway station.

The spokesman said the motive for the kidnap was "either political or for money," and there appeared to be no reason to fear for the child's safety.

king who invested a huge fortune in Europe before the Bolivian government nationalized his mines. He now lives in Paris.

President Carter's Giveaway On Energy

Approximately four per cent of the crude petroleum imported into the United States comes in American registered ships.

Three years ago Jerry Ford vetoed a bill that would require increasing that ratio to 30 per cent over a period of years.

In doing so, Ford, a long time advocate of strengthening the U.S. maritime industry, noted that the measure would subsidize American shipbuilding and the maritime unions at the expense of the American consumer.

Both the industry and the unions promptly dropped their friendship with Ford and in the 1976 campaign contributed, according to Common Cause, at least a million dollars to the Carter campaign and Congressional candidates known to favor the subsidy.

John Murphy from New York state, chairman of the House Merchant Marine and Fisheries Committee, is the author of a cargo preference bill which calls for raising the current shipping ratio by one point annually until it reaches 9 1/2 per cent in 1982.

The Hon. Murphy received $16,200 from the maritime unions and shipping interests for his 1976 campaign and $9,950 from the same sources at a June fund raising event.

Needless to say the cargo preference bill has cleared his committee and soon will be coming up for a vote by the full House.

Those on each side of this raid on the consumer's pocketbook predict a fairly close decision favorable to Hon. Murphy's friends, mainly because it carries Carter's blessing. Jimmy's legislative program thus far has drawn stronger support in the House than in a Senate which is definitely feeling its oats in being the world's senior deliberative forum.

If the cargo preference bill becomes law, its ultimate effect will increase the cost of gasoline by two cents a gallon.

For the past 18 years the maritime unions and some shipbuilding yards have tried to push their already heavily subsidized position higher.

The 1974 effort turned away by Ford is the latest tact in a series of proposals which if put in effect would only cause American shipping to be less competitive than it already is.

The cargo preference advocates are concentrating on petroleum imports because for all the rhetoric aimed at conserving energy and finding new sources of it the dismal fact of U.S. dependence upon foreign petroleum will be with our country for years to come.

Therefore, in the minds of the cargo preference people, what's wrong with somebody making the best of a bad situation?

Hon. Murphy is doing his best to disguise this pocketbook raid by wrapping the Stars and Stripes around it.

Cargo preference, he tells us, will strengthen the national defense by making it less dependent upon foreign shipping.

This is the case of a grain of sense being converted into a pearl of bunk.

The Defense Department, which includes the Navy, whose vessels are mainly fueled by oil, remind us that the nation's attention should be concentrated upon the availability of petroleum rather than its transportation.

In blessing the 9 1/2 per cent bill, Carter is paying off a campaign debt, not in the amount the bill's proponents would like, but sufficient to satisfy them for the moment.

Come 1982 they will ask for more and also move to extend the preference to other cargo.

Susan Tannenbaum, a Common Cause lobbyist, puts this consumer scapting the best we have heard. Says she:

"The President is yelling about the special interest lobbyists on the energy bill, and then he turns around and supports this."

BANDS HELP MAKE FOOTBALL GREAT

Editor,
Here it is another football season and we again get a "rehash" of past plays and players but many a word of past great bands (or even present ones). We get columns of comments on game plays but nothing of those band students and directors who have worked so hard to make an enjoyable half-time performance and back up the teams during touchdowns. Announcers must go thru the afternoon's scores and not give a minute or two to let listeners hear the band music. These young people have put in many hours to perfect their maneuvers, too. Come on, The Herald-Palladium and local stations, be a trend setter, give at least our local bands some time and space. They also do a great deal to make autumn an enjoyable season.

'BETTER WAY' VIA SOCIALISM

Editor,
What a wonderful idea it will be to end enforced retirement for older people! Senior citizens would then be able to live out their years in usefulness and dignity! And — maybe — Social Security funds will last a little longer for those who cannot be induced to wear the harness of wage slavery beyond ages 60 or 65!

Will not extended employment of senior citizens force unemployment and idleness on more youth and middle-aged workers, too many of whom now have an employment and who have little hope of enjoying youth or middle age in dignity?

Will the general welfare load be reduced if senior citizens continue to hold employment which younger people might do better?

Will the transference of unemployment from senior citizens to young citizens reduce the governmental debt which has been and continues to be the principal cause of inflation? Hardly!

The nation's, the world's forests, irreplaceable resources and water and air supplies have been jeopardized by profit-seeking lumber barons, mining barons, and industrial barons. Americans and people the world over have been reduced to being either voiceless cogs in profit-making enterprises or idle and useless wards of the state. Should we continue to tolerate such destruction of people and of nature?

Surely there is a better way, a way which enable all members of society to be usefully and happily employed to the full capability of each and to the improvement of the natural environment. Americans and people the world over have the right and also the opportunity to take the production of necessary goods and services out of the ownership and control of capitalist idlers who seldom toll or spin.

We also have the right and the ability to establish a new form of government which will be based on social ownership, administration and conduct of production and distribution. We, the people, will then be able to employ human and natural resources most advantageously. The production of goods and services so as to benefit each man, woman and child will be far safer and more humane than to allow a few industrial barons to destroy both society and government.

FBI Background Checks Are Poor

WASHINGTON — President Carter has inadvertently brought to the fore an issue which long has concerned many federal officials — the quality of the FBI background checks of those in line for high government positions.

At the emotional press conference devoted to the announcement of Bert Lance's resignation as director of the Office of Management and Budget, Carter twice cited the FBI's report on its investigation of Lance as evidence of his purportedly unimpeachable character.

"I would hope that in the future the complete FBI report might be made available," Carter said. "I think that if any of you would read it, he would see that... all of the analyses of Bert Lance's character and ability were favorable. And I don't think any mistake was made."

Later in the press conference, Carter added: "If you examine the entire FBI report now... (and) if that was all you knew about him and had never seen Bert Lance before, you would agree that he was superlatively qualified to be a cabinet-level officer."

Few people have seen the report on Lance because, like other FBI "special inquiries" conducted for the White House, it is held in strict confidence. But the fact remains that Lance was forced to resign because other investigative agencies — not the FBI — developed evidence which raised very serious questions about the propriety if not the legality of his business activities and financial transactions.

The FBI's Special Investigative Division conducts a "full field investigation" of all men and women the White House plans to nominate for a presidential appointment, to determine both if there are any "skeletons in the closet" and if they qualify for the security clearance required for many positions.

But there are numerous problems with the system developed by the FBI over the past quarter century. Among them: — The investigation often is geographically fragmented, with FBI field offices and resident agencies scattered throughout the country each responsible for only a small portion of the background check. The coordination supposedly provided in Washington sometimes leaves much to be desired.

— The pattern of questioning developed over the years by the FBI concentrates on items such as drug use, alcohol intake, sexual proclivities, political affiliations and potentially subversive tendencies. On the other hand, complex financial transactions, commercial fraud and other sophisticated forms of ethical or legal misconduct are deemphasized.

— "Applicant work," as it is known within the FBI, is one of the least favorite assignments among agents, even in the case of White House "SPIN" (FBI jargon for "special inquiry") requests, according to Sanford J. Ungar.

"As a result, the job is usually given to either the most junior agents or to the older guys who are serving their time until retirement," explains Ungar, author of "FBI," a definitive book on the bureau.

The unevaluated, unverified FBI reports were characterized by John Macy, a high-level personnel advisor to President Johnson, as the "most disjointed, irrelevant collection of gossip that could be provided."

Dan Penn, an aide to President Kennedy, likened the FBI reports to "Fibber McGee's closet — stuff just pours out." John Ehrlichman, an advisor to President Nixon, said he found the FBI reports to be "very poor jobs, very second rate efforts."

Instead of citing the FBI report as evidence of his friend's integrity, Carter would be well advised to seek a major overhaul of the FBI's archaic, unbalanced "vacuum cleaner" method of sucking up irrelevant information on cabinet members, White House aides and others in the very elite group which presides over the federal government.

Battling Belles Are Lining Up

WASHINGTON — The National Women's Conference to be held in Houston in November is in danger of becoming a shambles, a joke, a setback to the equal rights movement, and possibly even the focus of violence.

International Women's Year, which is directing the event, is concerned about a concerted campaign by right-wing groups to destroy the conference and discredit its recommendations. But they don't seem to know what to do about it.

Rep. Margaret Heckler (R-Mass.), a commission member, sighed recently: "I'm really worried that the worst might happen." A commission staffer was even blunter: "It's going to be the female version of World War III."

Roughly three-fourths of the delegates selected in 50 statewide conferences this summer to attend the Houston session support the Equal Rights Amendment and other goals designed to give women legal, social and economic parity with men. The commission itself has already endorsed ERA as a high priority item.

Realizing they couldn't make policy, the enemies of ERA, abortion, day care centers, equal job opportunities and other controversial women's issues decided to make trouble instead.

Their delegates will be outnumbered in Houston, but they are likely to be more vocal. They are also practiced in the tactics of disruption — name-calling, demonstrations, and outright lies.

Ku Klux Klan Imperial Wizard Robert Shelton claims his group has infiltrated several state delegations and adds "our men will also be there to protect our women from all the militant lesbians who will be there." The John Birch Society, the Mormon church, right-to-life organizations, the American Party, "Stop ERA," and other ultrarconservative groups have also stepped up their efforts.

Sen. Jesse Helms (R-N.C.) tried to give a semblance of respectability to right-wing complaints by letting representatives of the groups recite their charges before him in a public session on Capitol Hill (although he doesn't belong to any Senate committee with jurisdiction to look into the subject).

One of the major problems IWY now faces is that of security at the conference. Houston police will handle crowd control outside the convention hall, but IWY must make its own arrangements inside. Commission officials do not appear to be addressing this problem very seriously. Recently the commission blithely sent off two free tickets to the conference to every congressman, to be distributed as they please. Such lack of control over audience selection means it will be relatively easy for right-wingers to slack the galleries.

The women's conferences in the 50 states have provided a rare forum for half of the nation's population to argue issues which specifically affect women and which have too long been ignored. It would be a tragedy if a belligerent minority was allowed to make a travesty of the whole process and block the will of a majority of American women.

They're 'Two In A Thousand'

William Howell and Robert Burkhard are "two in a thousand." The two Benton Harbor high school students were given that tribute by Benton Harbor police Lt. Alfred Edwards Friday night after they turned in a purse containing $185.09. The owner of the purse, St. Joseph High School senior Diane Larson, certainly would agree.

Howell, 18, and Burkhard, 14, told police they found the purse in the parking lot of McDonald's Restaurant, M-139, Benton township. Miss Larson, 17, said the purse contained a large sum because she had just withdrawn $100 from a savings account to buy a dress for homecoming. She claimed the purse at the city police station and gave Howell and Burkhard each a $10 reward.

Howell is the son of Mr. and Mrs. William J. Howell, 2084 Hatch St., Benton Township, while Burkhard is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Burkhard, 2142 Laurel Ave., Benton Township. Miss Larson is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert H. Larson, 2135 Derfla Drive, Roylton Township.

Benton Harbor police reported a mother saved her 18-month-old son from injury by grabbing his foot to prevent him from falling out when a car door flew open.

Police said the mother lost control of the car, it jumped a curb and smashed into a fence. The car was driven by Essie B. Williams, 25, of 942 Buss Ave., and the accident occurred at 4 p.m. Saturday in Buss.

Demand Williams was examined at Mercy Hospital, and "no apparent injuries" were found, police reported.

Essie Williams told police the door on the passenger side suddenly flew open as she was rounding a curve. No tickets were issued.

Benton Township police reported James W. Curtis, 38, of 1658 Grove Ave., was treated and released at Mercy Hospital for a scalp cut Saturday evening after a two-car collision at Highland and Euclid avenues.

Police said Curtis was ticketed for failure to yield right-of-way in the collision with a car driven by David Hampton, 53, of 1246 Blossom Lane.

Township police also said Virginia Mae Morgan, 18, and Troy Morgan, 19, both of 430 Ohio St., Benton Harbor, sustained apparently minor injuries when the car in which they were riding struck a tree off Riverside Road at midnight Saturday.

Police said they were treated and released at Mercy, and Virginia Morgan was ticketed for driving without an operator's license.

Theft Is Charged

Two former employees of a Lincoln Township grocery were arrested after it was discovered Saturday morning that $3,889 had been stolen from a safe inside the store, the Berrien County Sheriff's Department reported. Officers said two men are being sought in connection with the case.

The former workers, both teenage girls, were booked and lodged in the county jail for investigation of a charge of breaking and entering the Quick Mart at the corner of Cleveland Avenue and John Beers Road.

Arrested were Rita Mae Persson, 18, of 604 W. John Beers Road, Lincoln Township, and Ann Skopce, 18, of Glendora Road, Weesaw Township.

Detective Capt. Ron Immons said warrants will be sought today for the girls and for two men in connection with the theft.

The theft occurred Friday night or Saturday morning and was discovered when an employee opened the safe to get change Saturday morning, deputy Abbott Taylor reported.

Anita Dienes, manager of the store, said neither the store nor the safe was entered forcibly. She told Taylor three female employees who were fired or quit in the past month had possessed store keys and knew the safe's combination Taylor reported.

Car Stop Yields Suspected 'Pot'

Two young men from South Dakota were arrested and over 13 pounds of suspected marijuana were seized Saturday night after a car was stopped on westbound I-94 in Benton Township, according to state police of the Benton Harbor post.

Troopers Gary Truszkowski and Ron Olson said they stopped a 1975 maroon Toyota after receiving a report from state police at Paw Paw that the driver of a similar car allegedly failed to pay for gasoline at a service station at the Lawrence I-94 exit.

Truszkowski said he smelled what he believed to be marijuana smoke as he approached the car. Truszkowski said the driver was unable to produce an operator's license and a small quantity of suspected marijuana was found in the car.

A locked suitcase from the trunk of the car was opened at the state police post after the auto was impounded and 13 pounds and 3 ounces of suspected marijuana were found inside, according to Truszkowski and Olson.

Sgt. Jerry Hyland said this morning if proved to be marijuana it would have a street value of about $6,000.

Booked at Berrien County Jail for investigation of charges of violating the controlled substance act (possession of marijuana) were Roger Dale Reedy, 22, Garrettsville, S.D., and Timothy Allen Hebberecht, 17, Brandon, S.D.

Troopers said Reedy also was booked for investigation of a charge of failing to pay for gasoline at Lawrence Standard Service.

SUSPECTED 'POT': Trooper Phil Mills inspects plastic bags containing over 13 pounds of suspected marijuana seized by state police from the Benton Harbor Post after a car was stopped on I-94 in Benton Township Saturday night. ## Artist's Sketch May Aid Police

State police at Benton Harbor today issued an artist's sketch in an effort to identify a woman whose body washed up on the Lake Michigan shoreline in Benton Township on Sept. 9.

Officers are asking anyone who may recognize or have seen the woman to contact the state police post at Benton Harbor.

Troopers described the woman as 5 feet 5 inches tall, 150 pounds, about 55 years old, hazel eyes, and brown hair with streaks of gray. She had no teeth or dentures and was wearing a ring with a turquoise stone.

An autopsy report showing death was caused by drowning and there was no evidence of foul play. The body had been in the water about two weeks.

The woman was buried Sept. 20 at Crystal Springs Cemetery in Benton Township. The burial was paid for by the Berrien County Department of Social Services, according to officials at Mercy Hospital, Benton Harbor.

Attempts to identify the body by fingerprints were not successful.

SJ Library Plans Family Film Night

Films on France, Greece and an historic railroad state-capital in northern Wales will be featured at family film night at Maud Preston Palenske Memorial library, St. Joseph, Tuesday, Oct. 4 at 7:30 p.m.

"France: New Horizons" explores the three major regions to find how the 46 million people use the resources of their varied land. "Greece: The Golden Age" centers on the more significant achievements of Fifth century Athens in the fields of art, literature and philosophy. "Railway with a Heart of Gold" presents the story of some rather non-conformist people engaged in running the historic Tal-y-Lyn, which would have been melted for scrap long ago had it not been saved by the railroad buffs.

Story hour for preschool through second grade children will be held Saturday, Oct. 8 from 11 a.m. to noon.

An assortment of crafts and hobbies will be featured in the display case during October, which is Craft and Hobby month.

Outlook Good For Food Shoppers For The Rest Of The Year

The October and rest-of-the-year outlook looks good for food shoppers, reports Maryann Beckman, district extension consumer marketing information agent. Food prices should be relatively stable for the rest of the year, due to generally larger food supplies. Mrs. Beckman adds:

Production of beef and other meats has remained large, keeping meat prices relatively low. Large grain supplies, which means cheaper food grain prices, have encouraged feed-beef production, but the overall cow herd continues to decline and supplies will be smaller in the future. Beef prices are expected to go up some from mid-November on, so now's an ideal time to stock up on some favorite cuts if you have freezer space available.

Because of larger pork supplies coming to market, pork prices are declining just in time to appeal to consumers looking for hearty fall eating. Spareribs and kraut, pork roast and apples and pork with squash and potatoes are traditional fall favorites that will be less expensive all fall.

Chicken prices are expected to be lower too. Because production will be larger than a year ago and because consumer demand decreases with cooler weather, prices are down. Many markets will continue to feature both whole birds and parts.

Though there is little activity in the turkey market now, turkey represents another very economical meat choice for the month. Turkey prices for the upcoming November-December holidays are expected to be up slightly from a year ago. Egg prices have dropped, so look for more frequent specials on this high quality protein food. Large size eggs are becoming the better value now.

The best fresh fruit values for the month will be apples, pears, grapes and Valencia oranges. The total United States apple crop is estimated to be up in 183.9 million bushels, which is larger than last year's crop and the most recent five-year average. Michigan's crop of 12 to 13 million bushels is up 10 per cent from last year's slumpy crop but down from a normal crop of 18-19 million bushels. Quality of Michigan's crop this year is excellent as apples have both good size and color. McIntosh will be the leading volume variety, followed by Jonathans and Red Delicious.

Bartlett pears and grapes (Emperor and Ribier) will be in good supply, even though tropical storm Doreen severely damaged the Thompson seedless crop in California. The drought in California has also shortened the Valencia orange season. Valencias are usually abundant through November when the navel crop starts to market, but growers report they'll be finished with harvest by early in October this year.

Most soft fruits and melons are winding down seasonally and will soon be gone for another year. Cranberries will start to market this month. Supplies will be 10 per cent less than last year's record breaking crop but about five percent above the 1975 crop. Banana imports are light, due to hurricanes in growing areas, so prices will be up even more than current high prices.

Local crops of corn, green beans, tomatoes and cucumbers are diminishing as the harvest ends, but are being replaced with larger supplies of cabbage, carrots, celery, fall squash varieties, potatoes and onions. Cauliflower, from Michigan, California and New York, is of excellent quality this year. The sauerkraut pack should be good too, for cabbage production in Michigan, Wisconsin and New York has been prolific. Green peppers and radishes are still abundant and more rutabagas, turnips and sweet potatoes are appearing in stores. Sweet potato supplies are down 12 per cent so retail prices are correspondingly higher. Quality is good though.

White potatoes are extremely reasonable in price now and are being speculated in most every store at almost give-away prices. The lower prices will continue, for supplies are large, there's a heavier-than-normal inventory of frozen potatoes on hand and the export market is down.

Dance Set Saturday

AUTUMN EVENT: Area square dance couples are invited to the "Harvest Moon Hoe-Down," sponsored by the Hits and Mrs. Square Dance club of Coloma, to be held Saturday, Oct. 15 at 7:30 p.m. at Washington school, Coloma. The event is under the chairmanship of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Wright, who are practicing dance steps. Jerry Preston will be cuing the rounds and Russ Young will be calling the squares. Admission is $3 per couple. (Staff photo)

'Captive Rainbow' Is October's Gem

Have you ever seen a Cupid stone, an eye stone or a thief stone? How about a captive rainbow or an anchor of hope? According to the Jewelry Industry Council, all these terms describe one gem: the opal.

October's birthstone, with its multicolored flashing lights, has fascinated mankind for thousands of years. The Roman historian Pliny described it as "the captive rainbow." Other Romans dubbed it "the Cupid stone" because the white opal's glowing tints suggested the youthful love god's clear complexion.

Less poetically, opal was called "the eye stone" during the Middle Ages because it supposedly improved it owner's vision. Oddly enough, it was also thought to make him invisible whenever he wished. If he were a thief, he could safely carry away his booty in broad daylight — hence the opal's other common nickname, "the thief stone."

Despite this unattractive name, every blonde did her best to lug, borrow or steal an opal necklace. As long as she wore it, according to medieval tradition, her golden hair wouldn't darken or fade.

Among the opal's other powers, it was supposed to strengthen the heart, guard against infections and turn pale in the presence of poisons. The opal wearer was guaranteed a cheery, hopeful disposition. Orientals said that the stone provided its owner with "an anchor of hope," and to this day, as October's birthstone, the opal symbolizes hope.

Part of the opal's charm is its uniqueness. It resembles no other gem on earth, and no two opals are ever identical. They differ in the colors of their fire as well as in their background hues. White opals and reddish fire opals are the most familiar; the dramatic "black opal" may actually be closer to blue, green or gray.

Opals differ from other stones in their chemistry as well as their looks. Found only where there was once an inland sea, opals are a form of silica containing from six to ten per cent water. Gradual loss of this water over a period of years can cause the stone to shrink or crack, accounting for much of the opal's "bad luck" reputation. Yet opals, like other gems, can last a long time with proper care. The most important precaution, according to the council, is to keep them away from excessive heat.

Prized by the Romans, unpopular with the Victorians, opals are once again the height of fashion. Jewelers, noting a recent upsurge in opal sales, say that most buyers don't have October birthdays. They are just intrigued by the opal's mysterious beauty and delighted with its moderate cost. While rare black opals may command high prices, white opals are generally within reach of most budgets.

If you have an opal you treasure, you are luckier than Cleopatra. With all her fabulous emerald mines, she couldn't get her hands on the opal of her dreams. This spectacular stone, with an estimated modern value of one million dollars, was owned by a Roman senator named Nomsus. He refused to part with the gem even when threatened with banishment by Cleo's lover, Marc Antony. "No no" Nomsus went into exile, taking his precious opal with him. That's the kind of loyalty this unusual gem stone can inspire.

'Your Problems' By Ann Landers

High Heels Are Sexy

Dear Ann: May I respond to "Furious" who complained about the "crippling, torturous five-inch heels foisted on us by the women's shoe industry"? For the last 20 years it has been wedges, platforms or boots. Women looked like combat Marines or construction workers paid to trample the asphalt.

Let's face it. High heels are sexy. They never were intended to be comfortable or functional. The idea is to get a woman up on her toes. The higher the heel, the smaller the foot looks, the arch and instep appear curvier, the legs look longer and more shapely. The hips wiggle more when she walks. The sexiest shoe has a very high heel, is backless and toeless.

Maybe "Furious" is too old to wear spike heels. If so, she shouldn't knock them. They turn most men on. I would rather hear clickety-click coming down the street than clompety-clomp. At least I'd know it was a doll and not a horse. — Reddy Teddy

Dear Red: Those five-inch, toeless, backless numbers may be sexy but they can be hazardous to life and limb. If they turn men on — and apparently they do — you can be sure the ladies will buy them. Vanity, thy name is woman!

Once Enough

Dear Ann: Recently my 25-year-old single girlfriend and I were discussing your column on whether or not a woman should thank her husband after having sex.

My friend's response was terrific. She said, "A wife should say 'thank you' only if she has to say 'please.'" I couldn't agree more.

As for standing up and applauding (another reader suggested that), I don't advise it, dear. A standing ovation calls for an encore. Speaking strictly for myself, I wouldn't want to embarrass the poor guy. I've been married for 15 years and I know how long that would take. I'm a working woman who needs her sleep. Dear Love: Glad you do. Write

Grandma Boozes

Dear Miss Landers: I have a serious problem. Actually, it's my grandma's problem. She is an alcoholic.

My whole family is going crazy trying to think of something to do to help her. She makes our lives miserable with calls in the middle of the night telling us she is going to commit suicide. When she is drunk we're all nervous wrecks.

I have suggested we call Al-Anon or AA, but my family insists that she would never go to "one of THOSE meetings" because she might run into someone she knows.

I'm only 14, so it's not like I can have any clout in this family. But I'd sure like to help. Some of the relatives are moving away from the problem. Instead of facing it.

Please print this letter and give me some idea of what I can do to help our grandma. — Scaredy Cat in San Jose

Dear Cat: Too bad people think it's degrading to go to a meeting where they meet others who are struggling with a common problem. I wonder if alcoholics think it is more "respectable" to go get plastered, talk nonsense, throw up on people's carpets and have to be carried home. If your Mom joined Al-Anon, it might be the first step toward helping Grandma. Suggest that she look it up in the phone book and call and ask for more information.

What's praiseworthy? What's O.K.? If you aren't sure, you need some help. It's available in the booklet: "Necking and Petting — What Are the Limits?" Mail your request to: Ann Landers, P.O. Box 11995, Chicago, Illinois 60611, enclosing 50 cents in coin and a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Joggers Parade

This jogging business has really gotten out of hand.

My street used to wake up lazily to chirping birds, an occasional clatter of milk bottles, and the gentle thud of a newspaper as it lodged in the spouting.

Not any more. Joggers in an assortment of shapes and stages of deterioration parade in front of our house 16 abreast like a Russian revolution. Cars zoom in and out, honking and screeching. Dogs bark and occasionally snap a thigh in their teeth. The sweat alone is enough to raise the humidity significantly.

My husband is one of them. He painted into the kitchen yesterday where he grabbed either side of the sink, bowed his head and gasped for breath. "I don't want to alarm you," he said, "but there's a tire mark on your throat."

"It's not a tire mark," he said irritably. "It's a gym shoe tread. One guy was running the wrong way."

"Couldn't he have stopped?"

"And lose his rhythm?"

I pulled the draperies. "Look at 'em. I haven't seen crowds like that since Bloomingdale's half-price sale on Christmas ornaments. It's not good for you."

"Who said?"

"Dr. Peter J. Steincrohn said. He contends jogging is for horses. Listen to this," I said, grabbing the paper. "Have you ever taken a good look at the jogger as he labors by? Look at his face. Have you ever seen a happy one? It's usually serious and contorted. If he's a masochist, he's having a great time. If he's like you or me, he's having a heck of a bad time."

"He's right, you know. Look at that guy... there's nothing in his face but pain."

"That's because the turkey is running against the traffic. You should never make eye contact with the driver of a car. Besides, you're just jealous because you don't have the discipline to get out there every morning and keep fit."

"You mean like the guy jogging along beside you this morning with a cigarette dangling from his mouth?"

"He's awfully good with dogs, though. What you don't understand is that we joggers share something special out there... an esprit de corps, so to speak. We're special and we know it. We're doing something for our bodies and our country and it's worth everything we have to sacrifice. There's a name for it."

"I know. We used to call it World War II."

Oswald: "Science is a great thing. Ask any scientist."

Jim: "It doesn't always work at the bridge table. There is a hand from a team game where the better-skilled bidder scored 690 points and the scientist wound up with minus 100."

Oswald: "No one can quarrel with either the one heart opening or the two-diamond response which started the action at both tables."

Jim: "There was a parting of the ways when the bidding got back to South. The unscientific South jumped to three notrump. West opened the three of spades and it didn't take South any time at all to run off seven diamonds, four spades and the ace of hearts."

Oswald: "At the other table South explored with a bid of two spades. North rebid to three diamonds and South closed the auction at three notrump. Warned away from all other suits, West opened a club and East cashed five club tricks."

Jim: "This hand is a good example of luck in duplicate. Give North one more spade and one less club and the man who did not bid spades would have lost a slam."

Ask the Jacobys

A Mississippi reader wants to know if small talk during the bidding and play of the hand is proper.

In the perfect state the only words to be heard during the bidding should be pass, double, redouble, notrump, spades, hearts, diamonds, clubs and the numbers one to seven. In our mundane sphere we have to suffer with small talk.

Waitress Missing; 'Copter Spots Body

POWERS, Mich. (AP) — A body tentatively identified as that of a waitress who disappeared three days earlier was found Sunday in a field near this Upper Peninsula community.

Authorities said they believe the body was that of Laura Allinger, 21, of Spalding, who was last seen early Thursday at a Powers tavern where she worked.

The body, spotted by an observer in a private helicopter which was aiding ground search teams, was found in a large field in Gouley Township, said State Police Sgt. Harry Houseman.

Cause of death was not immediately determined.

Menominee County Prosecutor Craig Roll was to issue a statement about the incident today, Sgt. Houseman said.

The woman's father reported her missing when he went to pick her up from work and found the tavern deserted. There was money and liquor missing from the bar, but Miss Allinger's coat and purse were still there, state police said.

Since the disappearance was reported, Menominee County

AT ANN ARBOR HOSPITAL 'Mystery' Shot Is Probed

DEARBORN, Mich. (AP) — Authorities at a hospital here have beefed up security after a patient who developed breathing problems claimed he earlier had been given an injection by a "mystery" man in a green surgical suit.

The 60-year-old patient, who had been hospitalized for an inflammation, was not in danger and has recovered, according to a spokesman for Oakwood Hospital.

Officials at the 586-bed hospital said that blood and urine samples from the patient were sent to a laboratory, which found an unidentified foreign substance in them.

Investigators said the patient told doctors the mystery man gave him an injection in the hip Friday. Another patient in the semiprivate room confirmed the incident.

"We're convinced that the man apparently got another injection other than his normal one," said Police Sgt. Jim Hughes.

The patient described the man who gave the injection as an Oriental man.

According to the hospital, at least 70 Oriental physicians are on the staff or have staff privileges, with a number of other Oriental men working in other capacities.

The spokesman said extra guards have been put on duty and have been directed to pay close attention to strangers entering and leaving the hospital.

The incident recalled the series of mysterious breathing failures at the Ann Arbor Veterans Administration Hospital during the summer of 1975.

Two Filipino nurses were convicted of poisoning in some of those failures after federal prosecutors said the women administered a muscle-relaxing drug to the patients through intravenous feeding tubes.

At the trial, a former patient testified he had seen a man in green surgical clothing in his room shortly before he had difficulty breathing.

Uncommon Allies Fighting Carter Natural Gas Plan

By BROOKS JACKSON and EVANS WITT Associated Press Writers
WASHINGTON (AP) — Senators and members of their staffs streamed in and out of the Senate floor last week, budding with lobbyists waiting there for a brief moment's conversation.

Although the lobbyists represented diverse interests, they repeated a remarkably consistent plea: President Carter's plan for higher, but still regulated, natural gas prices is a bad idea.

The representatives of the natural gas industry argued against Carter's plan, saying federal price controls should be removed — and prices allowed to rise — to encourage new production.

But consumer advocates said the energy prices in his package are too high, not too low.

And a myriad of other groups — from florists to papermakers — have tried to make their objections to the President's plan heard as the Senate has struggled through day after day and night after night of debate on regulating natural gas prices.

The opposition from this broad range of groups was a major reason that last week was not a good one for Carter's energy package.

And the President responded with harsh criticism of the lobbyists.

"I call on the Senate to act responsibly in the interests of the great majority of Americans to reject narrow special interest attacks on all segments of the national energy plan," Carter said. "The lobbying efforts of the oil and gas industry on deregulation itself show how the special interests are trying to block enactment of the entire energy program."

The industry has been lobbying hard against many parts of Carter's plan. And their efforts have been influential in some areas.

But the consumer groups, some unions and various industrial associations have also been fighting segments of Carter's energy package, particularly where it would raise fuel prices for consumers and industry.

On the other side, of course, has been the President and his allies.

Carter and Vice President Walter F. Mondale have telephoned and met with many members of the Senate on the energy package in the last two weeks.

And Energy Secretary James R. Schlesinger was a familiar figure in the halls of the Capitol as he went from meeting to meeting with senators.

Among the diverse groups opposing the President on natural gas pricing there have been no coalitions — not even informal ones — or other coordination of effort.

"They (the natural gas producers) don't even want the same thing we do," said Ellen Derman, head of the Consumer Federation's energy policy task force. "They want deregulation and higher prices. We are against deregulation."

But there have been at least four meetings since Aug. 11 among groups that usually oppose each other to talk about fighting another part of Carter's energy package, the tax on domestic crude oil.

Joining representatives of at least two major oil companies, Mobil and Gulf, were lobbyists for the Teamsters union, the Consumer Federation, the cotton growers, the airlines and a dozen other farm, labor and business groups.

All feared the oil tax, but each for their own reasons.

This opposition has put the tax in trouble, with it losing a narrow initial vote in the Senate Finance Committee.

The lobbying on natural gas pricing has been intense. And the result has been a stalemate that has left the Senate paralyzed.

"The natural gas lobby has been everywhere," said Sen. Henry Jackson, D-Wash., a key Carter ally in the battle. "They worked every angle. They are doing an efficient job."

JAMES SCHLESINGER Subsidy 'Ladieres'

President Bouncing Back With Tax On Oil Imports

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Carter is considering a $5-a-barrel levy on imported oil if Congress scraps his plan to raise domestic crude oil taxes, according to his top energy adviser.

The import fee would raise gasoline prices five to seven cents a gallon, the same increase envisioned by the President's original proposal, Energy Secretary James R. Schlesinger said Sunday.

"We are in this ludicrous position in which we are subsidizing every barrel of oil that comes into the country," Schlesinger said.

"That is the reason the (domestic) equalization tax was proposed. If Congress fails to enact that tax, the President must consider other alternatives."

Schlesinger said the President could raise taxes on imported oil under the Trade Adjustment Act without having to get congressional approval.

Schlesinger said the $5-a-barrel import tax would, by raising gasoline prices, have the same energy-saving effect as a $2.50-a-barrel tax on domestic crude.

Schlesinger said the United States "cannot afford" to continue importing $45 billion worth of oil, the projected total for this year.

He said that while gasoline prices would rise under the import tax, consumers could be offered some form of tax relief.

Carter has promised to rebate the $12 billion to $15 billion the domestic crude tax would generate to consumers.

Although the crude oil tax was killed by the Senate Finance Committee, an attempt to revive it is expected.

But Schlesinger said that the alternative uses the committee had considered for revenues raised by the tax would "give far too much to the industry."

Schlesinger spoke on ABC's Issues and Answers.

Sen. Henry M. Jackson, D-Wash., asked about Schlesinger's comments, said the question is not so much over the tax itself but what to do with the revenue it would produce.

"The fight will be over how do we spend the money and any time you get $12 billion or $15 billion in a pot before the Senate you will get 12 or 15 different suggestions as to how it should be spent," Jackson said.

Schlesinger was interviewed on Meet the Press on NBC-TV.

Gas Filibuster Talks Its Way Into 3rd Week

WASHINGTON (AP) — Two liberal senators filibustering to keep natural gas under federal control say they are within two votes of victory as the Senate deadline enters its third week.

Although two tests have demonstrated that supporters of natural gas deregulation have the votes to win, Democratic Sens. James Abourezk of South Dakota and Howard Metzenbaum of Ohio are vowing to continue their filibuster in the name of lower home heating costs.

"We are good for another 10 days or two weeks," Abourezk said after a rare weekend Senate session.

Abourezk and Metzenbaum are pinning their hopes on a tie floor vote.

Vice President Walter F. Mondale would then have to break the deadlock — by voting for the Carter administration's plan to continue controls.

In an important vote last week, supporters of deregulation won 50 to 44.

But for a potential parliamentary advantage, Abourezk voted with his opponents, meaning the tie vote was 49 to 45.

With Sen. Pete Domenici, R-N.M., willing to switch and vote for the federal controls if his vote would make the difference, that leaves a two-vote margin to reach a tie.

Predicting that some minds would be changed over the weekend, Abourezk said he thinks "the momentum is in our direction."

Majority Leader Robert C. Byrd said he expected the issue to be decided by Wednesday. But as long as the filibustering senators refuse to agree to a time for a vote, there is little Byrd can do to force the issue.

The Carter administration had originally proposed raising the price ceiling on natural gas to $1.75 per thousand cubic feet, but the President has since agreed to a compromise of $2.00.

The President's allies argue that while gas producers may need higher prices to provide enough incentive to find new reserves, gas does not need to be deregulated.

And a final congressional decision must await action by a House-Senate conference committee.

Because the House has approved Carter's $1.75 ceiling, Senate supporters of deregulation quietly acknowledge they anticipate a joint committee will vote a higher ceiling than $1.75, but will not approve deregulation.

As the Senate resumed the seemingly endless natural gas debate that has blocked almost all other business, the House scheduled work on a comprehensive proposal to make it easier for labor unions to organize.

The measure would punish recalcitrant companies that illegally block union recruiting efforts, speed procedures for joining unions and require immediate reinstatement of any worker fired for union activity.

Republican House members were expected to make a fervent effort to block consideration of the bill, which has the Carter administration's support.

ICEBERG PUNCH: Prince Mohammed Al-Faisal, of Saudi Arabia, gestures as he talks to newsmen, as Dr. Shawkat Ismail fills cups with apricot nectar chilled by piece of 2,000-year-old iceberg ice. Two-ton chunk of iceberg was flown from Alaska for International Conference on Iceberg Utilization at Iowa State University in Ames which formally open today. Four-day conference will deal with problems of towing icebergs to desert areas to supply fresh water. (AP Wirephoto)

What's Arab Prince Doing With Iceberg?

AMES, Iowa (AP) — Apricot nectar spilled over a blue-white clump of ice perched in a punch bowl while Prince Mohammed Al Faisal of Saudi Arabia toasted an iceberg that had cost him $7,500 to bring to Iowa.

"I've never seen an iceberg until I saw this piece of one," said Faisal. The prince is the co-sponsor of the First International Conference on Iceberg Utilization and says he has donated $50,000 to support the international meeting.

"We wanted people to touch it and see a real iceberg," said the conference chairman, Dr. Daniel Zaffarano. "That was the idea of it."

The four-day conference, which opens formally today, is sponsored by the National Science Foundation and has drawn more than 200 scientists from 18 nations to discuss possible uses of icebergs. The 4,785-pound iceberg was taken from Portage Lake in Alaska, hung by a net from a helicopter and flown to Anchorage. There it was cut into chunks and placed in 500-pound insulated containers packed with dry ice. After a flight to Minneapolis, it was trucked into Ames for its Sunday-morning arrival ceremonies.

Dr. Paul Barcus, conference coordinator for Iowa State University, got into the truck with a hammer and chisel and took samples for scientific study. The largest chunk that was broken off was given to the prince, who held it over his head for photographers.

Faisal took the piece to the home of a friend, Dr. Abdo A. Humweiny, where the centuries-old ice was cut to cool drinks. Dr. Humweiny, who is an associated professor at Iowa State, is technical chairman of the conference.

Besides his support for the conference, Faisal said he has invested four years and $1 million in his belief that icebergs can be transported to be used as water resources for arid countries.

He said he resigned his position with the Saudi government as governor of the Saline Water Conversion Corporation to devote full time to the iceberg project.

He has formed a firm, Iceberg Transport International, to do the job and will travel to California after the conference to discuss water problems with Gov. Edmund G. Brown Jr.

Faisal said his firm could be transporting 100-million-ton icebergs before 1980, and hopes to transport 100 of them yearly.

Beef Helps Hike State Grocery Bills

By MICHAEL L. GRACEYK
Associated Press Writer

Michigan grocery prices increased slightly in September, chiefly due to a steep hike in the price of beef, the monthly Associated Press Marketbasket survey shows.

The survey of 15 grocery items in eight Michigan cities averaged $16.52 cents; up 1.2 per cent, or 20 cents, from the month before. The August survey showed a price drop of nearly 3 per cent from July.

The two beef products in the survey — ground chuck and all-beef hot dogs — showed the greatest increases. A pound of ground chuck cost shoppers an average $1.17, up 11 cents from August. That's the highest price in more than two years. Prices ranged from $1.28 at Gaylord to $1.08 at Detroit and Flint.

THE PRICES

Here are the statewide averages for the 15 grocery items which comprise the AP Marketbasket for August and September:

1. One pound ground chuck: Aug. $1.06, Sept. $1.17.
2. One pound center-cut pork chops: $1.05, unchanged.
3. Six-ounce frozen orange juice: 36 cents, 37 cents.
4. One pound coffee: $2.64, $2.79.
5. Two-rolls paper towels: 85 cents, 83 cents.
6. Dozen medium eggs: 64 cents, unchanged.
7. One pound butter, quarters: $1.26, unchanged.
8. 49-ounce laundry detergent: $1.26, $1.27.
9. Fabric softener, size varies: 80 cents, 79 cents.
10. 12-ounce peanut butter: 79 cents, 79 cents.
11. Eight-ounce tomato sauce: 34 cents, unchanged.
12. Half-ounce chocolate chip cookies: 10 cents, 77 cents.
13. One quart milk: 51 cents, 50 cents.
14. One pound all-beef frank: $1.21, $1.27.
15. Five pounds sugar: 96 cents, unchanged.

Here is the city-by-city, item-by-item price for September, followed by the total Marketbasket for each city for August and September. Parentheses indicate most recently available figure when item was unavailable this month.

MARQUETTE — $1.09, $1.29, 36 cents, $2.79, 87 cents, 49 cents, $1.25, 82 cents, 79 cents, 27 cents, 83 cents, 53 cents, $1.29, $1.04, $1.74, $14.81.

GAYLORD — $1.29, $1.29, 36 cents, $2.64, 87 cents, 49 cents, $1.29, 82 cents, 79 cents, 27 cents, 83 cents, 53 cents, $1.29, $1.04, $1.74, $14.81.

FLINT — $1.08, $1.29, 36 cents, $2.64, 87 cents, 49 cents, $1.29, 82 cents, 79 cents, 27 cents, 83 cents, 53 cents, $1.29, $1.04, $1.74, $14.81.

ST. JOSEPH — $1.09, $1.29, 36 cents, $2.79, 87 cents, 49 cents, $1.25, 82 cents, 79 cents, 27 cents, 83 cents, 53 cents, $1.29, $1.04, $1.74, $14.81.

DETROIT — $1.08, $1.29, 36 cents, $2.64, 87 cents, 49 cents, $1.29, 82 cents, 79 cents, 27 cents, 83 cents, 53 cents, $1.29, $1.04, $1.74, $14.81.

MOUNT CLEMENS — $1.26, $1.26, 36 cents, 83 cents, 49 cents, $1.29, $1.23, 57 cents, 29 cents, 82 cents, 84 cents, 24 cents, $1.28, $1.29, $1.74, $14.81.

GRAND RAPIDS — $1.19, $1.29, 36 cents, $2.79, 87 cents, 49 cents, $1.25, $1.29, $1.25, 79 cents, 27 cents, 83 cents, 53 cents, $1.29, $1.04, $1.74, $14.81.

LANSING — $1.29, $1.29, 36 cents, $2.64, 87 cents, 49 cents, $1.29, 82 cents, 79 cents, 27 cents, 83 cents, 53 cents, $1.29, $1.04, $1.74, $14.81.

A pound of all-beef frankfurters rose six cents to $1.27. Prices ranged from $1.08 in Lansing to $1.30 at Flint and Marquette.

Elsewhere in the survey, a 40-ounce box of laundry detergent rose a nickel to an average $1.35. A 12-ounce jar of peanut butter was up three cents to 73 cents, the highest price since last January.

A six-ounce can of frozen orange juice was up a penny to 36 cents, the highest price in the history of the survey, now in its fourth year.

A 14½-ounce bag of chocolate chip cookies rose four cents to 87 cents.

On the positive side, the price of coffee continued its slow slide. Coffee in September averaged $2.59 a pound, down a nickel from August and off 26 cents from the record high five months ago.

Other items showing decreases were: a two-roll package of paper towels, down two cents to 83 cents; various size fabric softener, down two cents to 78 cents; a quart of milk, off a penny to 50 cents.

Prices remained unchanged for a pound of center-cut pork chops, $1.05; a dozen medium eggs, 66 cents; a pound of quartered butter, $1.28; an eight-ounce can of tomato sauce, 24 cents; and a five-pound bag of sugar, 96 cents.

The Marketbasket cost the most in St. Joseph, $17.04, a boost of 74 cents from a month ago. Flint and Mount Clemens shared the lowest Marketbasket, each totaling $16.01. In Flint, the survey total was 31 cents greater than August. In Mount Clemens, it was 22 cents less.

The Grand Rapids survey rose $1.21 to $16.55. Gaylord was up 38 cents to $16.96.

Marquette's $16.58 was 16 cents below August. Lansing was off 18 cents to $16.89 and the Detroit Marketbasket of $16.16 was down 14 cents in a month ago.

Milliken Wants Action

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Gov. William Milliken is calling for swift approval of a Michigan State Police budget providing for continued patrol of Detroit freeways.

In a prepared statement Sunday, Milliken urged the legislature to adopt promptly a plan that also would allow state police to expand their patrols to freeways in suburban Detroit and other urban areas in the state.

The legislature was scheduled to resume deliberations today on the state police budget after failing to reach agreement before the start of the new fiscal year Saturday.

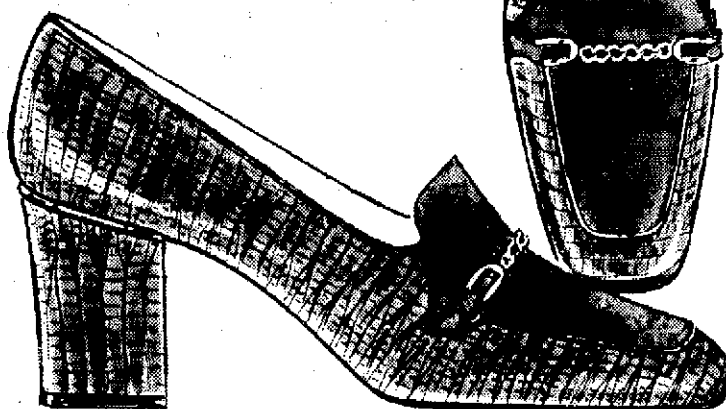

Earlier, the governor and legislative leaders had reached agreement on a proposal that would maintain the patrols in Detroit as well as in other areas where they are now in existence. The plan also called for the start of patrols on freeways in Detroit suburbs and all other urban areas.

But on Thursday, efforts to adopt the plan failed to get legislative approval, and the lawmakers adjourned without meeting the fiscal year deadline.

"Failure to reach prompt agreement on a state police budget," Milliken declared, "would mean failure to respond to the most important responsibility of state government — providing for the public safety."

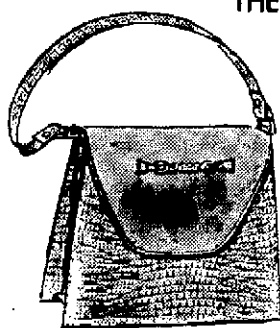

"The legislature must act promptly and it must do it in a manner that meets the needs of all of Michigan. It is already too late. Let's make sure it is not too little."

Cassopolis Loot About $13,000

CASSOPOLIS — Cass County sheriff's deputies are continuing to investigate the theft of some $13,000 in equipment from transportation offices of this community's school district.

Officials said they have no new leads or suspects in the burglary that occurred late last Wednesday or early Thursday. Reported taken were 21 bus two-way radios for buses and an electric typewriter.

It was the second such theft at the transportation offices in less than a year and some of the missing radios and the typewriter were replacements for equipment stolen last December.

A transportation office spokesman said that Arden Withers, transportation director, is currently in the process of securing estimates on a burglar alarm system for the offices.

The radios were taken from a locked storage area in the office area. They are removed each night from buses which are parked outside, the spokesman said. The radios are FM and sheriff's officers said they cannot be used as CB units.

Entry to the offices was gained by cutting through a chain link fence and then prying open a door to the office, according to police.

Say Crackdown Cutting Fraud

cases involving large amounts of fraud and suspected violations by federal employees. But the major work has been done by the state.

The cost to the state has been high, however.

The welfare investigation has used three fulltime assistant attorneys general and up to nine state police investigators. It has cost the attorney general's office $94,390, and the state police $150,000 as of last month, officials said.

The Medicaid probe has involved six attorneys, two attorney general investigators and 12 investigators from the Department of Social Services. Costs total $287,063.

State officials say the investigations have been slowed by the unwieldy social services system and the complex nature of the programs, especially Medicaid. And they say both programs — and law enforcement — invited cheating in the first place.

Asst. Atty. Gen. Max Hoffman, who heads the Medicaid probe, estimated in a report to Kelley that Medicaid fraud in Michigan costs taxpayers and needy recipients roughly $56 million a year. While only a small percentage of doctors, pharmacists, labs and other providers cheat, "the amount of money stolen by a few is disproportionately large," he said.

The most common billings

DIES: Singer Mary Ford, 53, has died after a lengthy bout with pneumonia after weeks in a diabetic coma, according to a hospital spokesman in New York. The spokesman said Miss Ford, singing partner of Les Paul in the 1940s, died late Friday. (AP Wirephoto) are: billings for services never provided; billing twice for the same service; kickbacks from labs to doctors for referring work to them; and "ping-ponging," in which several doctors may bill Medicaid for services only one of them provided.

The Medicaid probe has been slowed by the incredible complexity of the program and the difficulty in proving charges.

There is a forest of Medicaid rules and procedures, and all billing data are on coded tapes. In addition, doctors and facilities wrap themselves in a complicated corporate structure.

For example, Hoffman said one physician employed 73 other doctors in 28 different clinics, with each doctor an employee of the parent corporation and each clinic a lessee of a parent management corporation.

Despite a tougher new law making Medicaid prosecutions easier, it remains hard to establish personal criminal responsibility in such Medicaid cheats — showing just who misled and proving they knew it.

In addition, the legislature has passed laws authorizing licensing boards to revoke licenses after Medicaid convictions. Although the new laws don't require such revocations, Kelley said the boards "have suddenly become attuned to their responsibility — the climate has changed now."

And, he noted, the loss of his license can mean far more to a doctor than paying a fine or going to jail.

Social Services Director John Dempsey agrees it is tough to judge the probes' effect. But he cites scaled down Medicaid expenditures and a reduced error rate in welfare payments, and attributes both in part to the investigations.

"There was an attitude that you could cheat and not get caught, and if you got caught, nobody would do anything," Dempsey said. "That attitude has changed. I think the 'welfare problem' in Michigan has been broken."

And officials vow they won't permit the programs to be victimized again after the current investigations are closed. "The heat won't be off," Kelley said. "We're going to have traffic cops where they weren't before."

AWARDED DEGREES: FRANCONIA, N.H. (AP) — World heavyweight boxing champion Muhammad Ali and social scientist Kenneth Clark have been awarded honorary degrees at New Hampshire's Franconia College.

Faster Cancer Bans Proposed

WASHINGTON (AP) — The government says red tape is delaying decisions on whether hundreds of chemicals suspected of causing cancer should be banned from the American workplace.

In a plan expected to have a far-reaching impact on business and industry, the Labor Department today proposed eliminating the slow, item-by-item review of suspected carcinogens it says has stymied its work.

Although 1,500 to 2,000 substances have been identified as potentially causing cancer, the Occupational Safety and Health Administration has completed regulatory action on only 17 in its five-year history.

The proposal by the Labor Department agency would set standards for identifying and regulating all potential cancer-causing agents, often without the need for lengthy hearings as now required.

"Trying to control carcinogenic substances on a case-by-case basis is like trying to put out a fire with an eye dropper," Labor Secretary Ray Marshall said in announcing the plan, designed to pick out those substances that need emergency action.

"This new policy will allow OSHA to respond to threats to workers' health with much greater speed and efficiency," Marshall said.

After public hearings sometime in the next several months, the Labor Department can make the standards permanent.

The new approach is likely to be welcomed by labor and environmental groups, while being opposed by industry. Enforcement of many standards issued previously by the agency have been delayed through court challenges from business and industry groups.

The Manufacturing Chemists Association opposed an earlier draft of the plan and was expected to object to the final proposal.

The proposal would allow the agency to classify potential cancer-causing chemicals found in the workplace as either confirmed carcinogens, suspected cancer-causing agents or safe.

Such classifications would in turn automatically trigger various degrees of regulatory action.

A confirmed carcinogen would be placed under an immediate temporary standard, with final action on a permanent regulation limiting worker exposure within six months.

Chemicals suspected of causing cancer would trigger a proposed standard that would become final only after public hearings.

Dr. Samuel Epstein, professor of environmental medicine at the University of Illinois, called the new approach "the most critical step forward" in dealing with cancer-causing agents in the workplace. He said it would end "the chaos that has characterized OSHA's previous regulatory efforts."

terranean from Syria, it radioed the Cyprus air traffic control center that it was going to Algeria.

One American was among the captives still aboard the plane. Just before leaving Damascus, the hijackers told the control tower the rest of the hostages would be released at their final destination. But they did not disclose where that would be.

There was speculation that Algeria refused to give the terrorists refuge, they would turn to Libya or South Yemen; two Arab countries with radical governments which have accepted hijackers and other terrorists in the past. The hijackers are members of the ultraleftist Japanese Red Army which works closely with the radical Popular Front for the Liberation of Palestine.

The jetliner flew to the Middle East Sunday after a 42-day siege at the airport in Bangladesh and refueled in Kuwait and Damascus. The takeoff from the Syrian capital was delayed while Japanese and Syrian officials tried to get more hostages released, but the hijackers refused.

There were 156 persons aboard when the terrorists seized control of the Paris-to-Tokyo plane early Wednesday after it took off from Bombay.

The hijackers freed 115 of their hostages in Dacca, seven more in Kuwait and 10 in Damascus. That left 12 captive passengers and the crew of seven aboard along with the five hijackers and six terrorists freed from Japanese prisons in response to the hijackers' demands. The Japanese government also paid a ransom of $6 million.

Community Problems Are Topic

Suggestions on how citizens can help solve community and county problems will be offered by speakers Tuesday at 8 p.m. at the Community Church of God in Christ, 870 E. Washington St., Benton Harbor.

Rev. Milton Wells, assistant pastor, said three leaders have been invited to speak. Invited to discuss problems and solutions are Nancy Clark, chairman of the Berrien County Board of Commissioners; Joel Patterson, Benton Harbor mayor; and Mary DeFoe, president of the Twin Cities Area NAACP.

Milton Wells said the meeting is part of a week-long celebration by the church marking the 17th anniversary of the pastorate of Bishop Nathaniel Wells Sr. at Community Church of God in Christ. The public is invited to attend.

NEW ALLEGAN TREATMENT PLANT: Construction of Allegan's new $5 million sewage treatment plant in northern portion of city is about 65 per cent complete, according to LeRoy Goodenough, plant superintendent. Plant is to be done in June, 1978. It will provide secondary treatment and phosphorus removal and will have four million gallon capacity as compared to 750,000 gallon capacity of city's old plant. When completed, plant will meet new pollution standards with capacity for 12,000 population. Allegan's current population is around 6,000. Aerial photo looks west at back of new plant. Beyond circular aeration tanks are sludge pumping station and drying beds. Portion of Kalamazoo river can be seen in upper right hand corner. General contractor is DeYoung and Bagin, Grand Rapids. City's old plant is seen between new drying beds and sludge pumping station in upper center of photo by Adolph Hann.

Milliken Rocked By Political Setbacks

By LARRY McDERMOTT
Associated Press Writer
LANSING, Mich. (AP) — The Milliken administration has been rocked in the past few weeks by a series of political gaffes and defeats. Political observers are saying that Gov. William Milliken is in serious trouble with the legislature and that he is losing some of the power base built up during eight years in office.

Milliken, who hasn't decided yet whether to seek re-election, got a one-two punch at the end of last week.

The first blow came when six members of his own Republican party thumbed their noses at his plea for partisan support and went along with Democrats in the House to override his veto.

The governor had vetoed a bill that would take away some of the executive branch's power within the bureaucracy and turn it over to the legislature.

Still stunned by that, he learned the next day that an Oseola County Circuit Court judge had told the Department of Natural Resources it couldn't bury PBB-contaminated animals in the county because it wouldn't be safe.

With a new program beginning this week to rid the state of contaminated animals, the governor and his top officials administering the law face another critical problem — they have no place to put the animals.

Milliken is certain to hear complaints that his administration failed to anticipate a lawsuit blocking the disposal site and made a mistake by waiving a second environmental impact study.

To top it off, Judge Allan Miller took strong exception in his decision to what he considered a lack of sincerity on the abruptly abandoned his image of "Mr. Nice Guy" and turned almost vindictive.

In some uncharacteristic statements, Milliken threatened the six House Republicans who voted for the override. It was the first override in 26 years. In so many words, he said he wouldn't forget what they'd done and would get even.

But the strident retorts didn't stop there. He lashed out again the next day, calling them "the gang of six," and on Friday he blasted the state legislature, accusing it of irresponsibility while "grabbing more power."

For a governor who has worked with moderate ease in getting what he wanted from the legislature and his party for years, the tone was a distinct departure from the past. Some political observers believe he did more damage to himself by the attacking than he would have had he chalked it all up as part of being in politics and dismissed it.

Milliken's statements were indicative of the strain of defeats as well as the pressure created by mistakes — some of them made by top aides.

"If the governor continues this, he will have some problems," House Speaker Bobby Crim, the Democratic leader, said in an interview assessing last week's actions by Milliken.

Democrats wanted to override Milliken's veto in, as one party source said, "show him who's boss."

"I think he's perhaps overreacting to the situation. I'm willing to wait and let a reasonable period of time go by and believe he's a more reasonable man than he has been in the past few days," Crim said.

In a news conference Friday, Milliken pointed out that his part of Milliken's administration. "It is unconscionable not to treat this as a very serious matter," Miller said.

Milliken has had other problems recently. He failed to move quickly on the "double-bottom" tanker controversy, acting only after Democratic legislators took the initiative.

A controversial British-made documentary about PBB contamination became even more of a sore spot following a newspaper report that Milliken's aides were trying to suppress it. Milliken denied this several times. But each time he denied it, the issue was served up for more debate.

When he really needed it, Milliken didn't get support from his party's leader in the Senate, Robert Davis of Gaylord. After going against the governor on his transportation package, Davis was among seven Republicans who joined 23 Democrats in voting to override Milliken's veto of the bill taking away some of bureaucracy's power.

When the bill was overridden in the House last week, he defectors "do not hesitate to make comments they deem appropriate about the executive branch."

The events of the past few weeks and the governor's handling of them leave the impression that the well-oiled Milliken machinery of the past might be breaking down, spelling even more trouble for him in the coming weeks.

'Pot' Bill Simmering In House

By ROB WILSON
Associated Press Writer
LANSING, Mich. (AP) — With a veto override battle out of the way in the House, another controversial issue is being primed for debate this week — marijuana decriminalization.

It had been expected that the bill to ease pot penalties would be decided last Thursday. But that guess was made before the override issue exploded on Wednesday, pitting the governor against Democrats and a few of his own troops over a bill giving the legislature more control over the bureaucracy.

The override, the first to shake the House since 1951, left Gov. William Milliken fuming. It also left lawmakers nervous about taking up another emotional issue too soon.

Like the override issue, the pot measure will be decided only on that unique day when all the political variables mesh to allow the issue to be decided.

Rep. Perry Bullard, the bill's sponsor, stuck his toe in the political waters last Thursday. He hurried around the House floor, twisting arms and counting noses.

He didn't like what he found. An aide said later that the tally came up a couple of votes short — a crucial number for a measure that is expected to be decided by a nose or two.

So the marijuana issue was put off again. But it has slowly moved onto center stage in the House and Bullard, aware of that, is eager for action in the future. It is now a question of timing.

The bill would eliminate jail terms for possession of one ounce or less of marijuana and calls for a $100 fine with no criminal record for violators. Presently, pot users can get a year in jail and a $1,000 fine for possessing small amounts of the drug.

Possession of more than one ounce would call for a maximum penalty of 90 days in jail and a $100 fine.

The bill was defeated once in June, but it can be brought back on a reconsideration vote. If past action on the measure is any indicator, debate should again climb to a high emotional pitch. Before the bill was voted down, Rep. Matthew McNeely, D-Detroit, told House members how his 31-year-old son died from a heroin overdose, after becoming dissatisfied with marijuana.

The debate climaxed when Rep. Rusetta Ferguson, D-Detroit, hit Bullard on the head with her fist. The two later apologized publicly, but feelings on the issue continue to run strong.

To keep the feelings to a minimum — and lessen the risk of having his bill killed — Bullard has agreed to sit quietly on the sidelines when the debate resumes.

As House Speaker Bobby Crim says, "It's just an emotional kind of thing, the type of bill each state legislature has faced or will have to face."

The Senate, meanwhile, has taken no action on major legislation this week. But Sen. Gary Corbin, D-Clint, said his Municipalities and Elections Committee may vote on a bill stiffening regulation of lobbyists.

Two Suburban Schools Closed

By ASSOCIATED PRESS

More than 8,000 students were on unscheduled vacations at two suburban Detroit schools today as teacher strikes and special meetings forced the closing of classroom doors.

Negotiations between the Clawson Education Association and the school board broke off Sunday after a two-hour session at which no progress was reported in efforts to reach agreement on a new contract for 167 teachers.

The old pact expired in August, and the teachers walked out last Tuesday, causing the cancellation of classes for some 3,500 students.

The Clawson board filed suit the next day, seeking an injunction to force the teachers back on the job, but were turned down by Oakland County Circuit Court Judge James S. Thorburn.

Thorburn said he was dismissing the suit because the board should have named all of the teachers individually in its complaint.

There was no immediate indication of whether the school board would refile its suit. The next regular meeting of the board was scheduled for 8 a'clock tonight.

In Macomb County's Center Line school district, school officials canceled today's classes after the teachers' union scheduled a membership meeting to consider the latest contract offer from the school board.

The Center Line district has some 4,800 students and 238 teachers. The teachers have been without a contract since fall classes began Sept. 7.

Meanwhile, in Ann Arbor, a strike of school bus drivers forced about 7,900 students in the district to find another way to get to their classes.

The bus drivers walked off the job Thursday, two days after the drivers rejected the school board's latest contract offer.

The board said in a statement Friday that demands of the Teamsters Union negotiators were too high.

Beginning drivers now make $4.25 an hour. The board has offered $4.46, but drivers are asking $4.74.

Police have been forced several times to separate the ranks of pickets at the school garage to allow vehicles to enter. But no direct clashes have been reported.

PRO-PALESTINIAN DECLARATION

U.S.-Russ Mideast Stand Draws Fire

By ASSOCIATED PRESS

The Israeli cabinet, Sen. Henry Jackson and George Meany sharply criticized the new joint U.S.-Soviet declaration of principles for an Arab-Israeli peace agreement while the Palestine Liberation Organization and other Arabs called it a positive step toward peace.

The declaration, issued Saturday as part of the effort to get Arab-Israeli peace negotiations in Geneva started before the end of the year, urged Israel to recognize the "legitimate rights of the Palestinian people" and give them a role in the Geneva conference.

The statement also called for Israel to withdraw from territories occupied during the 1967 war, the creation of demilitarized zones manned by United Nations troops or observers to protect Israel's security and possible participation of the United States and the Soviet Union in international guarantees of Israel's borders.

Israeli leaders asserted that the declaration would stiffen Arab policy and hamper efforts to reconvene the peace conference, which met briefly in December 1973. The Israelis contended the call for Palestinian participation would open the door to the PLO and to creation of an independent Palestinian state, both of which Israel rejects.

The Israelis have said they will accept Palestinian representatives in a Jordanian delegation, but they must not be leaders of the PLO.

Finance Minister Simcha Ehrlich, presiding over the weekly cabinet meeting in place of ailing Prime Minister Menahem Begin, said the declaration was "the first signs that the superpowers want to impose a solution."

"The statement is not acceptable to Israel. We cannot accept an imposed solution."

Meany, the president of the AFL-CIO, said the declaration undercut Israel's bargaining position, and Jackson, the Washington Democrat, said the Soviets should not have been involved.

"I don't think it's going to work," said Meany.

"I can't possibly see the Israelis sitting at the bargaining table with someone who is pledged to destroy them, to exterminate them, who refuses to recognize their right to exist. I can't see an imposed settlement ... If there's going to be peace it has to come from a meeting of the minds of the various people concerned."

Although the Soviet Union and the United States are co-chairmen of the Geneva conference, Jackson said he saw no need to bring the Soviets into the picture, particularly since Egypt has expelled Soviet advisers.

"It seems to me we have elevated the Soviets to a position they would not have dreamed of," Jackson said.

Farouk Kaddumi, the chief of the PLO's political department, said the joint statement contained "positive implications toward a just settlement of the Middle East conflict." The Palestinian news agency Wafa said the declaration was a "positive step" that "should climax in a frank American recognition of the PLO as the representative of the Palestinians."

The Egyptian government radio welcomed the declaration as a "positive step toward a breakthrough in the stalemate Arab-Israeli conflict." But it criticized the failure of the statement to recognize the PLO as the representative of the Palestinian people.

The semi-official Syrian newspaper Al Thawra said the declaration responds "to many of the basic needs for just peace and thus falls into line with Arab demands."

160-Year-Old Engine Design Tested By Ford

DETROIT (AP) — Ford Motor Co., backed by a federal research grant, will try to develop a new, fuel-efficient, clean-burning version of a 160-year-old engine which may be powering automobiles of the future.

Officials from Ford and the Energy Research and Development Agency (ERDA) have signed a contract calling for a study of the Stirling heat engine, an external-combustion system similar in some ways to the old-fashioned steam locomotive.

The program is aimed at developing hardware and information that could result in the engine going into commercial production within eight years, Ford said.

The contract, signed Friday, will be reviewed annually. If it runs its eight-year course, the government is expected to contribute nearly $110 million and Ford $50 million.

The Stirling engine is being studied, Ford said, because it could prove to be cleaner-burning, more fuel efficient and could use a wider variety of fuels than conventional internal combustion engines.

In current gasoline-fueled internal combustion engines, an explosive mixture of gas and air is burned inside a cylinder head to drive a piston directly. It has been used almost exclusively in the auto industry since the first cars were produced.

The Stirling engine uses an external burner, capable of using a variety of fuels, to heat hydrogen gas contained within the engine. The gas expands when heated and contracts as it cools, pushing the pistons back and forth.

Ford began investigating the Stirling engine in 1971. In one project paid for by Ford, a 170-horsepower Stirling engine was demonstrated in a mid-sized Ford-built car. Later, in an ERDA-funded study, a four-cylinder engine for a compact car was designed.

It was the encouraging results of those tests that led Ford last year to submit a proposal to ERDA for an extensive development program.

Invented in the early 1800s, the Stirling actually preceded the internal combustion engine and was used to pump water from mines and quarries. By the 1850s, gasoline-powered internal combustion engines had gained prominence.

The auto industry has been pressed in recent years to find a substitute for the conventional engine because of the increasing strictness of federal clean air standards and fuel economy requirements.

A Ford spokesman said the project's first year is considered "crucial" because progress during that period will determine whether the contract is continued.

ERDA reportedly is negotiating contracts for parallel Stirling engine development studies with American Motors Corp., Mechanical Technology, Inc. of Latham, N.Y., and United Stirling of Sweden.

Abortion Feud Mires HEW-Labor Funding

WASHINGTON (AP) — Disagreement over when federal money should be used to pay for abortions has blocked passage for months of a bill appropriating money to run two government departments.

A House-Senate conference committee was scheduled to try again today to agree on the abortion issue and clear the way for passage of the $80.3 billion bill that finances the Labor Department and the Department of Health, Education and Welfare.

Both departments technically were without money as of midnight last Friday, the end of the fiscal year, but government officials said payments for welfare, unemployment and other services will continue anyway. The Senate and House conferees have been battling with the abortion question since July.

Russ Picking No. 2 Man

MOSCOW (AP) — The Soviet Union's leaders are opening a week of meetings that are expected to result in the naming of a first vice president for President Leonid I. Brezhnev.

In nationally televised sessions, the leaders will also reveal the final text of the new Soviet constitution, which creates the post of first vice president. They also may announce an amnesty for prisoners or other gestures to mark the 60th anniversary of the Bolshevik Revolution.

Diplomats believe that if a powerful ally of Brezhnev is named to the new vice presidency, he would become Brezhnev's second in command, and that this would put him in an excellent position to succeed to the chairmanship of the Communist party, the nation's top post, when Brezhnev, now nearly 71, leaves the scene.

It is also possible that someone of lesser stature will be named to assist Brezhnev in his ceremonial presidential duties, leaving the succession sweepstakes still wide open.

Western analysts have had no firm idea of which of Brezhnev's colleagues stands the tallest or what the succession might be.

The week's decisions will be made formally by the 4,000-member Supreme Soviet, the parliament of the Soviet Union, which meets from Tuesday through Friday. But presumably the decisions have already been made by the Communist party's 14-man Politburo, and East European sources predicted the party's 250-member central committee would meet today to pass on them.

Brezhnev has given no indication of plans to retire, but many diplomats believe his health is deteriorating. The Moscow rumor mill has buzzed for weeks with speculation about who the first vice president will be. The favorites are two Politburo members who have been publicly honored in recent weeks.

Andrei P. Kirilenko, 71, received a bronze bust in his honor on Sept. 22 and Ukrainian party boss Vladimir V. Shcherbivsky, 59, was named a Hero of Socialist Labor on Thursday. Brezhnev praised Shcherbivsky's work at the award ceremony, which was televised

'Joke' Ends In Man's Death

DETROIT (AP) — A 20-year-old security guard was fatally shot, the apparent victim of a practical joke on his partner, police said.

The victim, Errol Jackson, died Friday of a single bullet wound to the forehead allegedly after trying to scare his partner, Lake Holman, 23, as the two were making their rounds at the Wayne County Department of Social Services building.

Holman told police that he and Jackson, both employed by a private security agency to guard the building after midnight, were good friends. Jackson had played similar tricks on him before, Holman said.

According to Holman, the two guards routinely took turns inspecting the building's upper floors. Between 3:30 and 4 a.m. Friday, Holman told police, Jackson began an inspection, starting on the first floor and then taking an elevator to an upper floor. Holman said he stayed at the central guard desk in the building's lobby.

Minutes later, Holman told officers, he heard footsteps and noises on the first floor. Becoming alarmed, he said, he drew his gun.

After hearing more noises near the elevator, Holman told police, he got up to investigate.

RECURRING SHOULDER PAIN CALLS FOR ACTION

According to Dr. Vince Ackerman, D.C., of the Ackerman Chiropractic Center, shoulder pain is easily recognized as a symptom but seldom understood.

"Earlier less acute symptoms provide the tip-off," he says. "What often results in the aching, throbbing shoulder is a condition that began as stiff and tender 'Shaw' muscles across the top of the shoulders."

He continues, "The pain increases in intensity until it is almost unbearable if the conditions is not treated and let go over a period of weeks."

Obviously, neck and shoulder movement then becomes increasingly painful and difficult.

"The first interest in correction frequently follows the frustration a person has who attempts to shave or comb the hair," Dr. Ackerman says. "That action can cause an increase in sharpness of pain down the arm and tingling in the fingers."

Ultimately weakness and fatigue, tremor of the arm accompanies the pain, and the muscles across the chest may become tender.

"The symptoms are all the more recognizable and made more severe by coughing or sneezing."

The good doctor adds, "Ultimately, nature responds to the incessant pain with varying degrees of immobility."

Dr. Ackerman explained that shoulder and arm pain constitutes the most frequently recognized symptoms of structural defects in the lower neck and upper spine.

"Should a spinal segment in the lower neck be forced from its normal alignment or beyond it's normal range of movement by a fall, accident, or by postural stress," he says, "the segment may partially close the tiny nerve opening between adjacent segments."

Abnormally small or distorted nerve opening serve to irritate the nerves which pass through them to supply the shoulder, neck arm, upper back and chest muscles. It follows that muscles supplied by irritated nerves themselves become tense, painful and lose their normal elasticity and ability to relax.

"And thus, the painful limited movement follows," the doctor comments. "This in itself can cause problems as more nerves in the lower neck and back can be affected and themselves produce a wide variety of symptoms and problems."

He added "Symptoms of defects in the lower back and upper spine vary greatly and any of these symptoms may appear isolated or in combination."

"The shoulder pain, tingling, add pain across the chest can be only the first of many problems. Upper back aches, headaches, pain and tenderness of the forearm, all are pieces of the composite pie."

Experience has shown that acute and chronic shoulder and arm pain should respond extremely well to the specialized care offered by the Doctor of Chiropractic.

"But, cautioned the good doctor, 'the pain and tenderness are call to action."

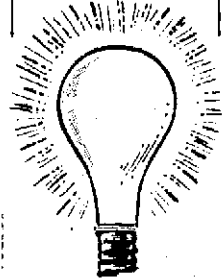

"Shoulder and arm pain will probably never permanently correct themselves," he added.

Needless suffering from these symptoms and conditions is indeed senseless.

Dr. Ackerman maintains Chiropractic offices at 3918 Red Arrow Hwy., St. Joseph telephone: 429-1701

from Creative Kitchens.

CHICKEN GRAVY

Remove meat from pan. Pour off extra fat from drippings. Add water. Bring to a boil, stirring to dissolve brown bits. Slice in 1/4 bar of SMOOTH & EASY™ brown gravy maker for every cup of liquid. Cook and stir for 30 seconds until gravy thickens and boils.

BEEF STROGANOFF

Cook meat, vegetables, and potatoes in the usual way. Slice in what you need of SMOOTH & EASY, stir until thickened and boiling. Serve with sour cream over hot cooked noodles.

STEW STOCK

Cook meat and vegetables until tender. Slice in SMOOTH & EASY, stirring constantly until thickened. Use about 1/4 bar per cup of liquid.

DO YOUR OWN THING

Take 1/4 bar of SMOOTH & EASY and make it the basic part of almost any brown gravy or sauce you can dream up. Add mushrooms, parsley or chives. Use red wine or tomato juice for all the liquid. Create! And enjoy!

And all it takes is 30 seconds to liven up so many dishes!

Refrigerated for freshness, new SMOOTH & EASY uses the same kind of good ingredients you'd use in your own homemade gravy. It takes only 30 seconds because Creative Kitchens™ did the hard part of precooking and pre-blending. All you do is add SMOOTH & EASY™ brown gravy maker to just about any boiling liquid and stir.

There are no preservatives in SMOOTH & EASY. And it comes in an easy-to-measure bar that lets you make as much or as little as you like, so there's no waste. You can make 4 cups of gravy from every bar!

New SMOOTH & EASY™ brown and chicken gravy makers and white sauce maker are in your grocer's refrigerated section. There's really no end to the uses you'll find for the most versatile food idea of the year. The recipe folder in every box is just the beginning; you can get dozens more recipes by sending for the SMOOTH & EASY recipe book with the order blank below.

RECIPE BOOK OFFER.

You'll find hundreds of ways to use new SMOOTH & EASY in your favorite recipes. But we'd like to help you get your imagination going with this fascinating book. # Carterites Use Briefings To Fight Canal Pact Foes

By RICHARD E. MEYER
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) —

President Carter's aides, buffeted in a million-dollar fight against the new Panama Canal treaty, say they can't swing back with the kind of punches their opponents are throwing. But they are confident they can save the treaty from a beating.

"We can't buy media advertising out of the White House," muttered Landon Butler, a deputy presidential assistant. "You can't do that as an agency of the government."

Joe Aragon, a special assistant to the president, said, "We want to make sure it doesn't look like we're carrying off some kind of a propaganda campaign."

That shoe, Aragon said, is on the other foot.

The two White House aides, both on top assistant Hamilton Jordan's task force to win Senate ratification of the treaty, spoke in a recent interview. What are they doing, they were asked, to counter the campaign, mostly by conservatives, against the treaty?

The opposition, both agreed, is formidable.

Conservative groups are bombarding key members of the Senate with mass media advertising aimed at constituents back home.

The conservative arsenal includes an avalanche of anti-treaty mail, a television documentary, "fact sheets" on the Panama Canal, protests against the treaty and "truth squads" of prominent treaty opponents traveling around the country to mobilize opinion against Senate ratification.

The biggest guns include former California Gov. Ronald Reagan and Sen. Barry Goldwater, R-Ariz., opposing the treaty at every opportunity, aided by groups like "Reagan's Rough Riders," proposed as "an expeditionary force of volunteers" to keep the canal under American control.

In all, the conservatives say their effort probably will cost more than $1 million.

Landon and Aragon say their counter effort centers on a series of briefings for "opinion leaders" in swing states sent to the White House by senators whose votes will be crucial to ratification of the treaty.

"We've probably run as many as 800 people through the State Dining Room for briefing sessions on the canal," Butler said.

Zamora Defense Getting Its Turn

By FRED BAYLES
Associated Press Writer
MIAMI (AP) — Ronny Zamora's mother will be called to the stand as the defense tries to bolster its contention that the 15-year-old boy accused of killing an elderly woman was living in a fantasy world of televised violence.

Prosecution testimony ended on Friday and witnesses for the defense including other family members and doctors were to testify today.

Defense attorney Ellis Rubin was expected to call Zamora's mother, Yolanda, to help prove that television programs had served as the boy's "babysitter and teacher since the age of 4."

Mrs. Zamora is also expected to testify about the effect the drowning of a friend had on her son when the family lived in Staten Island, N.Y. Rubin says Zamora still bears emotional scars after failing to save his friend, who fell through an ice pond.

Zamora and Darrell Agrella, 14, are charged with first degree murder in the death of Elinor Haggart, Zamora's 89-year-old next-door neighbor. Agrella is to be tried separately.

Rubin has said he would prove his client was a "sociopath whose idea of right and wrong were formed by television."

"We will present the creation and destruction of a TV addict," Rubin told the jury of nine men and three women last week.

He subpoenaed television star Telly Savalas when the actor appeared in Miami last month. Savalas, star of the "Kojak" series, is scheduled to give a deposition on the case at an undisclosed location Tuesday.

Circuit Judge H. Paul Baker has said he will study the deposition before deciding if Savalas' testimony would be relevant to the case.

Trial excerpts are being televised each night on Miami's public television stations under a one-year experiment ordered by the state Supreme Court allowing television and still cameras in the courtroom.

Train-Pickup Smashup Fatal To 10 In Florida

PLANT CITY, Fla. (AP) — "I did everything in my power to stop it, but there just wasn't enough time," says the engineer of an Amtrak passenger train that slammed broadside into a pickup truck and killed 10 persons, seven of them children.

Florida Highway patrolmen at the scene of the Sunday night accident said there were no survivors in the camper-backed truck.

None of the 10 passengers in the train was injured. Troopers said they thought the victims were migrant workers. They said it may be a day or so before firm identifications are made.

Early reports indicated that two adults were in the cab and one adult and seven children, ages 1-10, were in a camper perched atop the truck bed. The camper was wrenched off and crushed almost beyond recognition.

Investigators said late Sunday that they believed they had removed all of the bodies but because of the darkness and thick underbrush would again sit through the charred, twisted wreckage today.

Police investigators said they found a purse with identification cards indicating some of the victims were from Bushnell in northern Florida.

Pete Medley, engineer on the Chicago-to-St. Petersburg route of the Floridian, said he tried his best to stop.

"The engineer said he was 200 feet from the crossing when he first saw the truck," said Plant City police Sgt. Lee Candis. "The crossing was marked with flashing lights."

Witnesses said the crossing lights were working and the train whistle was blowing, but the truck went across the tracks in an apparent attempt to beat the train. The crossing is located about 25 miles due east of Tampa in a rural area billed as the "strawberry capital of the world."

The train, traveling at speeds estimated at up to 70 miles per hour, crushed the pickup and pushed it about half a mile down the tracks. The vehicle exploded into flames that Fire Chief Lester Evans of nearby Dover said could be seen for one mile.

The train had just left nearby Lakeland on the last leg of its run when the accident occurred at 8:25 p.m. The Floridian reached its final destination at 10:26, two hours overdue.

FALLING FOR FRILLS

Many people go house-hunting in a remarkably casual way - and sometimes end up making costly mistakes. One of the mistakes a house-hunter can make is to buy the frill instead of the house. All too often a family will fall in love with an eye-catching feature and buy the wrong house. This mistake happens frequently and in all price ranges.

Families skip over careful consideration of the major factors because something minor has really grabbed them. The lure may be a charming fireplace, a glamorous lighting fixture, a garage door opener, or even a dog-wood in bloom.

Yielding to superficial attractions like these can result in your family winding up with a thoroughly unsuitable house. Bear in mind that these same alluring features can usually be added to another house at a relatively small cost, considering the amount of the overall purchase.

If there is anything we can do to help you in the field of Real Estate, please phone or drop in at BERRIEN REAL ESTATE SERVICE, 1014 Main St., St. Joseph, Ph. 983-1384. We're here to help!

Not All The News On Economic Front Is Bad, But...

By JOHN CUNIFF

AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — Don't for a minute believe that all the economic news of late is bad, even though a good many seers are holding their heads and meaning that nothing seems to work anymore.

We are still building and buying houses and cars and we are making progress in resolving some of our pollution problems and we are enforcing equality and reducing inflation and making plans to invest in new plants.

It is true that economic expansion is slowing, but so far there is very little to indicate an actual shrinking of the economy is to be expected. A slowing of expansion is still expansion. It is growth, albeit at a slower rate.

That said, there are some very real problems, as distinguished from fears, that we will have to deal with over the next few years, and the solutions aren't going to come easily. When did they ever?

What is to be done with unfair foreign competition, especially from Japan? Talk to businessmen today and they easily reveal their anger about, and even their terror of Japanese imports: Steel, cars, electronic equipment.

Some if not most of America's best brand names in consumer electronics have given up the attempt to compete with the Japanese. Instead they are contracting with them to produce goods abroad to which are then affixed American brand names.

Meanwhile, American steel and electronics equipment makers are laying off workers, some of them claiming at the same time that the Japanese are exporting products at below their true production costs.

While not singling out Japanese exporters, but speaking also of other government-supported steel producers, the chairman of U.S. Steel Corp. told Congress that a crisis exists equal to that in energy.

"It's crucial that they understand the deliberate and planned use of the American steel market to gain economic progress and to maintain employment overseas," said the chairman, Edgar B. Speer.

Businessmen are also complaining about harassment from a strictly domestic source. Government regulation, they say, has reached the point where it is dictating production, handicuffing marketing and adding to inflation.

Sid Terry, vice president of Chrysler, addressed a recent meeting of the National Association of Accountants on the subject of "Cars by Congress," and issued this warning:

"If we are forced to design for the lawmakers and not our customers, if we lose touch with the people who buy and use our products, then we're in deep trouble and the consumer is too.

Small business too has its complaints. Not only is it being crushed by big business and big labor, says its spokesmen, but they are being inundated by government paperwork requirements which, they underscore, is a non-productive task.

Youngsters are upset about their inability to crack the labor force. Those in their 20s are now determined to stay a while longer, now that discriminatory retirement edicts are giving way. And therein is a serious problem.

When one executive, for example, decides to stay on for five years beyond the old retirement age of 65, he causes to back up behind him scores of other executives who had expected to move up a notch in the company.

What are the consequences beyond that? Nobody seems to know for certain, but the suspicion is that delayed retirements at the top will cause desertions to other companies by those further down the ladder.

Of immediate consequence.

JOURNALIST DIES

LONDON (AP) — Veteran British journalist, Vincent Mulchrone, one of Fleet Street's best-known writers, died Saturday at age 58 after a long illness.

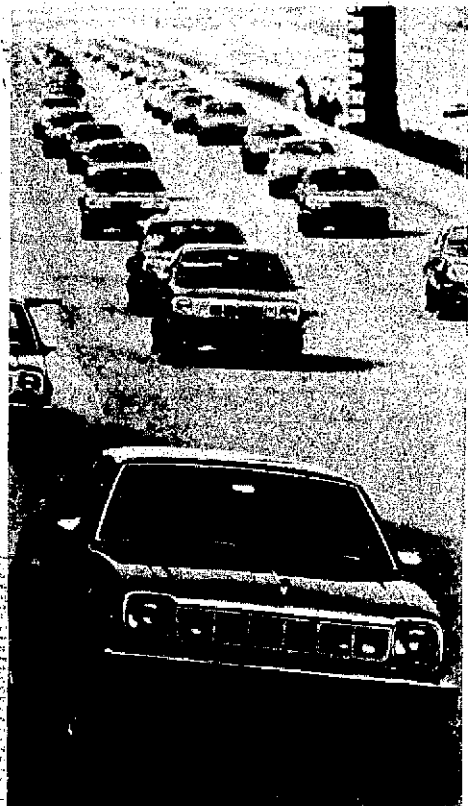

delayed retirements will make it all the more difficult to cut into teen-age unemployment, which has become a worldwide problem loaded with possible political consequences. In radicalism, for instance.

We have plenty of problems. The European economies have lost their momentum, and their leadership is opting for conservative rather than expansive solutions, thus making it more difficult for us to improve our trade imbalance.

We haven't solved our energy shortage. The farmers aren't happy. The stock market is beset by investor doubts and its own structural instability.

But load on all the problems and you still can't say that all economic progress has stopped. Life goes on.

SPEEDWAY DEBUT: A total of 100 new 1978 AMC Concord head into first turn on famed Indianapolis Speedway during American Motors introduction of the new luxury compact last month.

Hoopla Launches AMC's Concord

DETROIT — American Motors pulled out all the stops to introduce its new luxury compact, the 1978 Concord, last month.

More than 6,000 AMC dealers and guests from coast to coast drove away in parades of as many as 200 new Concord to celebrate the initial deliveries of the new car to AMC dealers.

The police-escorted parades drove through major shopping centers and downtown areas in such cities as Miami, Portland, Dallas, San Francisco and Atlanta. The parades caught spectators' by surprise and caused many of them to inquire if it was perhaps a holiday they had forgotten.

In five cities — Minneapolis, Boston, Pittsburgh, Kansas City and Los Angeles — the Concord also made its entrance by air, landing by helicopter in the middle of the mass driveways.

In Indianapolis, the famed speedway was the setting for a special driveway of more than 100 Concord. Line up three abreast, the dealers drove several laps and then received the green flag as they left the speedway to symbolize the start of the sales year for the new car.

In Tarrytown, New York, the parade of almost 100 dealer-driven Concord was preceded by the champion marching band from Northern Highlands, New Jersey.

In Denver, a stationary blimp floated over the dealer meeting site, carrying the message, "Concord Lands Today."

In Philadelphia, the Concord was declared official car of the city's NBA team, the 76'ers, and the driveway was led by all-star forward George McGinnis and General Manager Pat Williams.

NOW YOU DON'T HAVE TO PAY EXTRA FOR THE LUXURY OF A LUXURY COMPACT.

Concord D/L wagon

Concord D/L 4-door sedan

Concord D/L 2-door sedan

Big car luxury in a sleek, compact size.

The Concord D/L's luxury has been slimmed and toned onto a trim 108-inch wheelbase.

The elegant exterior features a formal Landau vinyl roof with opera windows, white sidewall tires with color-keyed wheel covers, color-keyed side scuff moldings, bumper nerfing strips and a distinctive hood ornament. Just a few of the standard features that add to Concord D/L's striking appearance.

And, as you would expect of such a luxurious car, the ride is uncommonly smooth and quiet.

Interiors that make you feel good inside.

Seated inside a Concord D/L, you'd never believe it was a low-priced compact car. It's loaded with luxurious "extras" at no extra cost.

There's crushed velvet upholstery throughout, with plush, cut-pile carpeting. The front seats recline individually. The handsome wood-grained instrument panel overlay houses an electric digital clock. The entire passenger compartment is shielded from road noises by an Extra Quiet Insulation package. Even the trunk and spare tire cover are carpeted.

Values that make you feel good all over.

What makes it even more amazing is the outstanding value Concord D/L offers for the money. Because all the "extras" just mentioned are included at no extra cost. And the price is as modest as the car is luxurious.

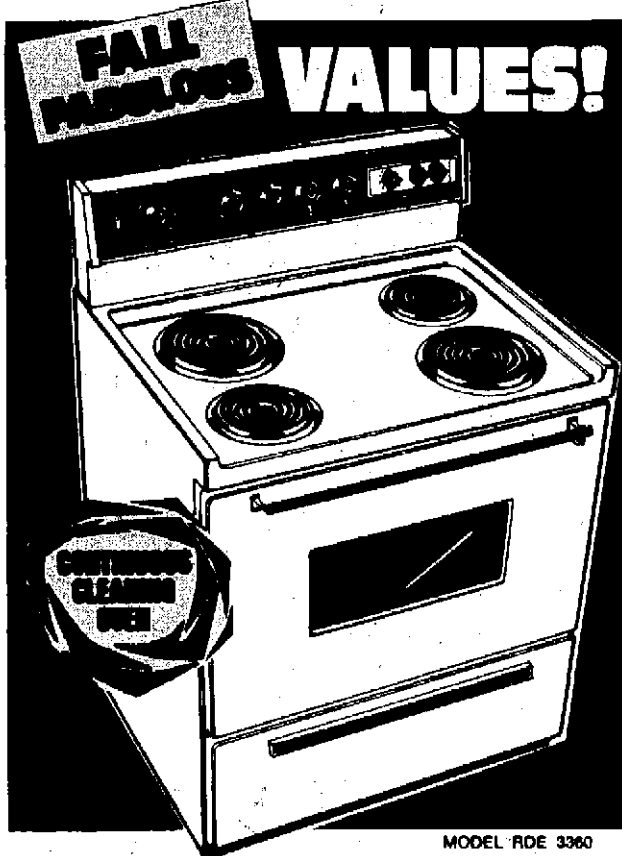

You also get AMC's exclusive BUYER PROTECTION PLAN*, with the only full 12 month/12,000 mile warranty. That means AMC will fix, or replace free any part, except tires, for 12 months or 12,000 miles whether the part is defective, or just plain wears out under normal use and service.

*Buyer Protection Plan is Reg. U.S. Pat. and Tm. Off.

MD Must OK Mothers' Milk Tests

DETROIT (AP) — Nursing mothers must get their doctors' signature before their milk can be tested for PBB at the state's only approved laboratory.

The red tape means women have to wait to get test results. The lab's tests so far show four times as much PBB in mother's milk as the state now permits in meat, but scientists discount any danger because the new permissible minimum is so extremely low.

The lab, Environmental Research Group (ERG) in Ann Arbor, requires the signatures in order to cut down on the number of tests and to prove a physician is requesting the complicated procedure.

Some women have said they had to wait up to a month for the test results.

The milk is tested for possible contamination from PBB, or polychlorinated biphenyl. The toxic fire retardant was mixed accidentally with cattle feed and distributed around the state in 1973. Since then, 30,000 farm animals have been destroyed because of PBB contamination.

Many new mothers fear their breast milk contains amounts of the chemical because of contaminated meat or dairy products they have eaten in the last four years.

Dr. Richard Copeland, director of ERG, said his lab has processed about 2,000 samples of breast milk since the testing began last winter. The median level of PBB in the milk was .08 parts per million.

A state law that takes effect Saturday specifies food must not contain more than .02 part per million. The permissible amount before was 0.3 ppm.

"A test result of .08 in a breast-feeding mother presents no problem as far as we can determine," Copeland said.

"In women with a PBB trace level of 20 to 50 parts per million, we would be concerned. But levels that high are rare. A person must have a special exposure to PBB to reach levels that high."

Dr. Robert Loeey, director of the Oakland County health department, said doctors' signatures are required because ERG will not send results to a patient.

Dr. Kenneth Wilcox, director of the state bureau of disease control and laboratory services, said ERG is the only lab in the state that has the right equipment to do the specialized tests.

"There is only a limited need for the test and it is the type of testing that is not normally done in most clinical labs," Wilcox said. "Generally speaking, the levels we have found in Michigan women are not high enough to be of great medical concern. I don't see any harm to a patient for any delays in receiving test results, other than the obvious anxiety of the mother."

In March, about 80 percent of the women tested showed detectable traces of PBB in their breast milk.

Grant 'First' For State

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Michigan is the first Midwestern state to receive a federal grant for an energy conservation program supplement, Gov. William Milliken has announced. The $1.2 million Federal Energy Administration grant will enable the state to offer financial assistance to at least eight local governments. Milliken said. The funds will be used to start locally planned and administered energy conservation programs. The money also will be used to provide assistance for nonprofit or volunteer groups for energy education efforts. The grant brings to nearly $7 million the amount of federal money provided for Michigan in the last four months.

Truck Brake Device Under Fire

By Brooks Jackson
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — His truck was loaded with five tons of dynamite when Barry Magers hit the brakes too slow for a spotlight in Fort Wayne, Ind. "The darned brakes didn't do anything," he recalls.

He ran over a curb and narrowly missed two automobiles before bringing the truck and its dangerous cargo to a stop across the intersection.

Last Aug. 18, Robert Ogletree slammed into a 1966 Mustang with a loaded semi-trailer truck near Salt Lake City, Utah, killing four teenagers and hospitalizing a fifth. He also told police his brakes didn't work.

Brake failures on trucks are nothing new, but in these and many other cases there's suspicion that the failures were caused or aided by flaws in complicated new anti-lock computers that were forced on the trucking industry by the federal government in 1975.

The computers, designed to keep wheels from locking up and skidding during hard braking, are supposed to prevent accidents. And while there is only one case in which the devices have been proved to be at fault in an accident, they are now suspected in literally scores of them.

Government safety officials are clearly concerned. "We take this very seriously," says John Claybrook, head of the National Highway Traffic Safety Administration.

The brake requirement is currently one of her biggest headaches. A sister agency, the Bureau of Common Carrier Safety, refuses to make truckers keep the anti-lock devices connected on grounds that the equipment is unproven and trouble-prone. The California Highway Patrol wants the requirement lifted because it conflicts with its own approach to brake safety.

Webster B. Todd, a past chairman of the independent National Transportation Safety Board, says the government ought to junk the anti-lock requirement. Todd, who has driven semi-trailer rigs on a couple of mountainous runs, says the equipment is too complicated for mechanics to keep working properly. "If it busts in Moose Jaw, who's going to fix it?" he says.

The estimated total costs of the brake rules run upwards from $1 billion a year, which translates into about $5 a year for every American in added shipping costs, and maybe several times that much.

Most frustrating for government safety officials is the fact that there is yet no conclusive proof that the brake rule has brought about an over-all reduction in accidents or highway deaths.

A recently released University of Michigan study did show that a sample of semi-trailer trucks equipped with the devices had 4 per cent lower accident rates than another sample of pre-1975 trucks without them. Straight trucks had 21 per cent lower accident rates.

But the researchers said the difference was too small to allow any statistical conclusions and the difference also could be attributed to the greater age of the non-computerized trucks.

When Miss Claybrook's predecessors imposed the anti-lock requirement on all air-braked trucks and buses they relied mainly on assurances by brakemakers that their equipment would work.

But in some cases, they didn't. The government was forced to suspend its requirement for buses because faulty wheel sensors were causing accidents. The manufacturer of the bus equipment, Rockwell International, has now quit making it.

Now the American Trucking Associations Inc. wants the anti-lock requirement suspended for trucks as it was for buses. In a news release the ATA accused the government of "using the public highways as a testing ground for an unsafe truck braking system."

In truth, there is much evidence that truck brakes were unsafe before the agency acted.

Statistically, heavy trucks are 10 times more likely to be in a fatal accident than is an auto. Before the new brake rule they typically required at least 100 feet more than cars to brake to a stop from 60 miles per hour. And statistically, they hit cars from the rear more often than cars hit them from the rear, indicating that their longer stopping distances translate into highway accidents.

Michigan Destroys Aggies

Wolverines Look Like No. 1 Team In 41-3 Rout

By LARRY PALADINO
AP Sports Writer

ANN ARBOR, Mich. (AP) — Critics have been ranting for years about Michigan's easy non-conference football schedules.

So this year the Wolverines

Statistics

	A&M	Mich
First Downs	12	12
Rushes-yards	75-206	44-197

Return Yards	5	88

of the Big Ten found themselves paired up against Southwestern Conference power Texas A&M. Many people were predicting an Aggie victory.

Well, Michigan — which struggled to defeat Duke and Navy the two previous weeks — matched its No. 3 ranking against No. 5 A&M and destroyed the Aggies 41-3 Saturday.

The Wolverines weren't as overpowering as the score may indicate. But they probably convinced a lot of people that the No. 1 rating they had for two weeks wasn't all that out of whack.

However, "I'd just as soon not be No. 1," said Coach Bo Schembechler. "It's a pain in the neck. No. 1. No. 1. Who cares who's No. 1? It's only four games."

Michigan, which resumes its Big Ten schedule next Saturday at archrival Michigan State, owns a 4-0 record. Texas A&M, which is idle next weekend, fell to 3-1. "It really hurts to lose as badly as we did," said Aggies' coach Emory Bellard. "It was a humiliating loss, and it certainly hurt those kids."

The game was regionally telecast, but it was ABC's primary game and included 68 percent of the network's coverage area.

Schembechler, reprimanded

last week by Big Ten Commissioner Wayne Duke for criticizing officiating of the Duke

Michigan game, was slapped with an unsportsmanlike conduct penalty in the first quarter. He apparently was too vigorous in his protest of a Michigan penalty.

"I want you to know this," Schembechler said. "All I did was ask that official what the penalty was about and when it was on. That is his responsibility. He never told me..."

Michigan won the toss but kicked off, forcing A&M to drive against the wind so as to hamper kicking star Tony Franklin. The strategy worked, although Franklin did give A&M a brief 3-0 lead with a 24-yard field goal after the Aggies recovered a Russell Davis fumble in the first quarter.

Michigan's defense, led by linebacker Ron Simpkins, continually stymied the Aggies' offense — although 6-foot, 277-pound fullback George Woodward gained 153 yards in 39 carries.

Davis, his counterpart, made up for losing two fumbles by rushing for 110 yards in 19 carries and scoring touchdowns with a 4-yard run in the second quarter and a 1-yard plunge in the third.

The Wolverines pulled away when quarterback Rick Leach hit split end Curt Stephenson with a 35-yard touchdown pass.

Three plays after Dwight Hicks intercepted a pass from A&M's David Walker, Harlan Luckelby scored on an 8-yard sweep in the fourth period.

Simpkins — who recovered a fumble to stop an Aggie drive at the Michigan 19 early in the game — blocked a punt and Jim Pickens pounced on it in the end zone for another TD, then Mike Jolly intercepted a Mike Musley pass and returned it 50 yards for the final touchdown.

PONTIAC, Mich. (AP) — "The Polish Rifle" sank to his knees in despair, the last hope of his Philadelphia Eagles destroyed with two minutes left by a guy named English.

English, English, English. On three occasions Detroit defensive tackle Doug English was in the right place at the right time Sunday to help the Lions take a 17-13 National Football League victory over the Eagles.

The Lions, who play next Sunday at Minnesota, are 2-1 and tied with the Vikings for first in the National Conference Central Division.

But the victory came at the expense of two key injuries. Tackle Rockne Freitas and free safety Levi Johnson, both starters, were lost for the season with knee injuries. Both were to undergo surgery today.

Philadelphia is deadlocked with St. Louis and the New York Giants for third in the East with a 1-2 mark.

Dexter Bussey scored two touchdowns for the Lions, one on a 14-yard run and another on a 3-yard pass from Greg Landry, while Steve Mike-Mayer kicked a 45-yard field goal.

Philadelphia quarterback Ron Jaworski — "The Polish Rifle" — threw a touchdown pass of 32 yards to Keith Krepfle and 16 yards to Harold Carmichael.

But it was the tenacious play of English that had the most influence on the outcome of the game.

Philadelphia linebacker Frank LeMaster pounced on a Bussey fumble at the Lions 13-yard line just before the two-minute warning, setting the Eagles up for a possible winning touchdown.

On the next play, Jaworski handed off to Tom Sullivan who had the ball jarred loose by English. Lem Barney recovered for the Lions and raced 31 yards to wipe out Philadelphia's last hope.

"The older guys on this team have a super attitude," English said, "and they don't get real excited. They just say, 'It's up to us. Let's get the ball back and stop them. Maybe you do get a little more psyched when you know the game is on the line.'"

In the first quarter, third-year pro English — a former All-American from Texas — ended a 58-yard Eagles drive by recovering a Mike Hogan fumble at the Detroit 30.

In the third period, Philadelphia went ahead 13-0 on Carmichael's TD. But English blocked Horst Muhlmann's conversion kick.

Detroit's first touchdown came on Bussey's sweep around right end. The 14-yard sprint came on the first play after Johnson intercepted a Jaworski pass and returned it 32 yards late in the first quarter.

Philadelphia first tried to get on the board early in the second period on a 47-yard field goal attempt by Muhlmann, but it was blocked by Leonard Thompson.

Mike-Mayer failed on a 48-yard attempt a couple minutes later, then the Eagles drove 72 yards in seven plays for their first TD. Jaworski hitting tight end Krepfle over the middle with his 42-yarder.

The Lions' old nemesis, the holding penalty, eliminated an 18-yard touchdown pass from Landry to tight end Charlie Sanders just seven seconds before the halftime gun. Detroit settled for Mike-Mayer's 45-yard field goal on the final play of the half.

A 54-yard, eight-play drive early in the third period ended with the 16-yard TD pass to Carmichael, who wound up with four receptions for 67 yards.

It took the Lions 12 plays to move 68 yards — with Landry often hitting fullback Horace King with short passes — as Detroit regained the lead on Bussey's 3-yard touchdown catch.

A 60-yard Eagles march to the Detroit 20 early in the final quarter ended when Muhlmann missed a 37-yard field goal try. Jaworski sprained an ankle and was carried off the field in the fourth quarter, but he returned later.

Bradshaw's Aerials Lead Pittsburgh Past Cleveland

From ASSOCIATED PRESS

Quarterbacks Archie Manning and Terry Bradshaw used different techniques but the end results for the New Orleans Saints and Pittsburgh Steelers were the same. And after all, the end results are all that really count in the National Football League, according to Detroit Lion Coach Tommy Hudspeth.

Manning ran for three touchdowns and passed for a fourth in New Orleans' 42-24 rout of Chicago Sunday. Bradshaw reversed the method, passing for three TDs and running for another as Pittsburgh defeated Cleveland 28-14. Hudspeth's Lions survived a so-so performance, defeating Philadelphia 17-13.

Besides the Saints' upset of Chicago, underdogs did well in other games. The New York Jets stunned New England 30-27 on a last-minute field goal by Pat Leahy and San Diego upset Cincinnati 24-3 with James Harris passing for 200 yards and two TDs.

Bradshaw connected for TD passes of 6 and 14 yards with Lynn Swann and buried a 65-yarder to Frank Grant. The Steeler quarterback also scored the final TD himself on a 1-yard plunge.

Leahy's 32-yard field goal with 23 seconds left came after the Jets had stripped the ball away from Mike Haynes following a punt.

It was the second straight loss for the Patriots, who bowed by the same score to Cleveland last Monday night.

Harris hit ex-Bengal Charlie Joiner on touchdown passes of 30 and 15 yards as the Chargers surprised slumping Cincinnati. Harris scored the other Charger TD on a one-yard plunge as the Bengals lost their second game in three starts.

The Dolphins stung the Oilers for three touchdowns in the first period and then coasted to their victory behind quarterback Bob Griese.

Duriel Harris caught five Griese passes for 87 yards and Benny Malone carried 17 times for 84 yards for Miami.

Viking Coach Bud Grant picked up his 100th regular season victory despite a fired-up Green Bay defense that sacked Minnesota's quarterback Fran Tarkenton four times for 53 yards.

"It was as good a pass rush as I've seen in awhile," said Tarkenton, who nevertheless completed 19 of 27 passes for 181 yards and directed three long scoring marches.

The Broncos won their third straight with veteran quarterback Craig Morton passing for 181 yards and running for 35 more against the winless Seahawks. Morton threw a 47-yard TD pass to Rob Lytle and also scored on a 1-yard run.

Billy Kilmer tossed touchdown passes of 12 yards to Frank Grant, 27 yards to Jean Fungott and 53 yards to John Riggins as the Redskins jolted the Cardinals.

John Cappelletti and Lawrence McCutcheon scored two close-in touchdowns each leading the Rams past the 49ers. Three of the four TDs came from one yard out and the other — McCutcheon's first — was from the six.

Colorful linebacker Thomas Henderson took an interception 77 yards for a Cowboy touchdown as Tampa Bay lost its 17th consecutive regular season game.

Efren Herrera kicked field goals of 32, 19 and 20 yards to seal the Dallas victory.

Bert Jones completed 20 of 30 passes for 178 yards and hit Don McCauley on a 15-yard aerial for the clinching TD as the Colts topped the Bills. It was the 13th straight regular season loss for Buffalo.

The Falcons sacked Giant quarterbacks nine times for 81 yards as Atlanta's defense sparkled.

"I can remember when we've gone seven games without getting nine sacks and that was not too long ago either," said veteran defensive end Claude Humphrey.

Miami recovered the fumble to drive for its second touchdown Sunday in the NFL game played in the Orange Bowl. The Dolphins went on to post a 27-7 victory. (AP Wirephoto)

Saints' Big Plays Gun Down Bears

CHICAGO (AP) — When

Archie Manning and the New Orleans Saints had to come up with the big play, they did. When the Chicago Bears came up with the big play, somebody messed it up.

Of their 17 third-down plays Sunday, the Saints made first downs on four and touchdowns on four. The Bears had three first downs and no scores on 19 third-down plays.

Chicago receivers dropped at least six passes from Bob Avellini, who had a strong game. Two catches in the end zone were nullified by penalties. And the Bears were penalized 11 times for 111 yards.

The result was a 42-24 National Football League whipping of the Bears by the Saints as both teams' records went to 1-2.

"For the first time in three games we played aggressively with our specialty teams, our offense and our defense," said Saints' Coach Hank Stram. "We came up with a lot of big plays and Archie really threw the ball great." Manning completed 8 of 17 passes for 168 yards, but his flashiest plays were the result of fine footwork and coolness under pressure.

He ran for touchdowns of 8, 2 and 11 yards. On the first, his primary receiver was covered, the second was a run-pass option and the third was a quarterback draw trap.

"It's a super play. The disadvantage is you can get your quarterback killed," said Manning. "We weren't worrying too much about who got hurt, we needed to win."

On the draw trap, which Manning also ran for seven yards on the play before the first touchdown, the guards set up to block and the quarterback drops back three or four steps to dupe the defense into expecting a pass. Then he takes off.

Stram said he added the play for the Bears' game because "they're a very aggressive team. Their tackles penetrate quickly and the linebackers have to read the flow of the backs so we just take the backs out of the backfield."

"We haven't had good tackling all year, but this was the worst," said Chicago Coach Jack Pardee. "Their quarterback shouldn't be that hard to get down."

Defensive tackle Roger Stillewell, one of the Bears who filled in for injured All-Pro Wally Chambers, said, "We miss Wally. He's always an intimidating factor. He's kind of a coach on the field too. I don't think we're doing too much to make up for his loss."

The Saints took a 21-10 halftime lead and made it 35-10 before Walter Payton, who gained 140 yards, ran for two of his three touchdowns. The first was a 33-yard pass from Avellini that gave Chicago a 7-0 lead.

Avellini completed 18 of 38 passes for 238 yards even though the Saints' early lead dented a passing offense. But he wasn't happy.

"Not when you lose like that, you can't be pleased," he said. "To be a winning team, you

Bowl Scouts Watch 16-6 Win

Irish 'Rush' Beats MSU

By JOHN VANDEN HEED

Sports Editor

NOTRE DAME, Ind. — There were bowl scouts watching here Saturday, so Notre Dame put on a "rush" for respectability and ran down Michigan State, 16-6.

On offense, halfback Jerome Havens (who switched from fullback for the game) rushed the 134 yards and David Mitchell ran for 91 more, including the game's only touchdown.

Just as important was a Notre Dame pass rush which sacked the Spartans with 75 yards in losses, including four setbacks for 33 yards in losses by Irish defensive tackle Ken Dike. "Their pass rush was better than we expected," admitted MSU coach Darryl Rogers.

And Rogers knows the Spartan offensive task won't be any easier this Saturday, because MSU, now 2-2, will face an even tougher defense in a home Big Ten game with third-ranked and unbeaten Michigan.

For 14th-ranked Notre Dame and coach Dan Devine, the home-opening victory over MSU was almost a must. The Irish had lost to Mississippi 20-13 before rallying behind substitute quarterback Joe Montana to slip past Purdue 31-24.

Notre Dame, now 3-1, was in control of the situation Saturday after erasing an early 3-0 MSU lead on a 38-yard field goal by Hans Nielsen. The Irish tied the game on Dave Reeve's 42-yard field goal and went ahead in the second quarter on Mitchell's nine-yard TD scrummer. Notre Dame's other scores came in the third quarter on field goals of 40 and 51 yards by Reeve. MSU also wrapped up its scoring in the third period on Nielsen's 37-yard field goal.

MSU blew an excellent chance to get back into the game late in the fourth quarter. The Spartans moved inside the ND five but got pushed back by a delay of game penalty when reserve quarterback Marshall Lawson (regular Eddie Smith went out with bruised ribs) kept complaining about not being unable to hear because of crowd noise. Nielsen then missed a 23-yard field goal.

That was a disappointment for Spartan supporters. But there was an instance during the goal line stand which had almost everyone smiling. Lawson came out of the huddle and lined up behind the guard instead of his center. "I just started laughing," said Notre Dame's Dike afterwards, "and the offensive tackle across from me burst out laughing, too."

Notre Dame was never able to put the Spartans down for good — until the final minutes — despite having excellent field position time after time because of MSU's early problems with its punting game. (The Spartans got a net 20 yards per punt the first half.)

The Irish had a total of six turnovers, including two lost fumbles inside the MSU five yard line. Both teams dropped passes which had touchdowns written all over them.

"We made some mistakes and let Michigan State out of deep trouble several times," said Devine. "But we blocked and tackled very hard."

Michigan State got one of its field goals after one of Notre Dame's turnovers...one of three pass interceptions by defensive back Mark Anderson (he tied an MSU record).

The Spartans had four turnovers, with three pass interceptions leading to Notre Dame's field goals. The Irish touchdown came after a 28-yard punt by MSU's Ray Slachowicz.

Notre Dame finished with a 45 to 293 edge in total yardage. MSU again picked up a good chunk through the air (281 yards), with Smith hitting nine of 19 and Lawson seven of 15. Tight end Mark Brammer of Traverse City was the leading receiver in the game with eight catches for 128 yards.

Dawagiac's Edgar Wilson, the leading Spartan receiver on the season and the offensive captain Saturday, pulled in four aerials for 45 yards. He had key catches in both of MSU's scoring drives. "Wilson is good," declared Notre Dame cornerback Ted Bingham, "especially on his long routes. When you're talking about raw speed, these two (Wilson and Kirk Gibson) were the best receivers we've faced all year."

Notre Dame's Montana went right for 23 in his first starting assignment of the season. Tight end Ken McAfee was the leading Irish receiver with three catches for 71 yards.

Reeve's 51-yard field goal was only the second in ND history over 50 yards...he hit a 53-yarder last season. MSU's Nielsen moved into second place on the Spartan scoring list (184 points) with his two field goals.

Notre Dame led in first downs 24 to 18, but MSU had the ball one minute and 16 seconds longer than the Irish.

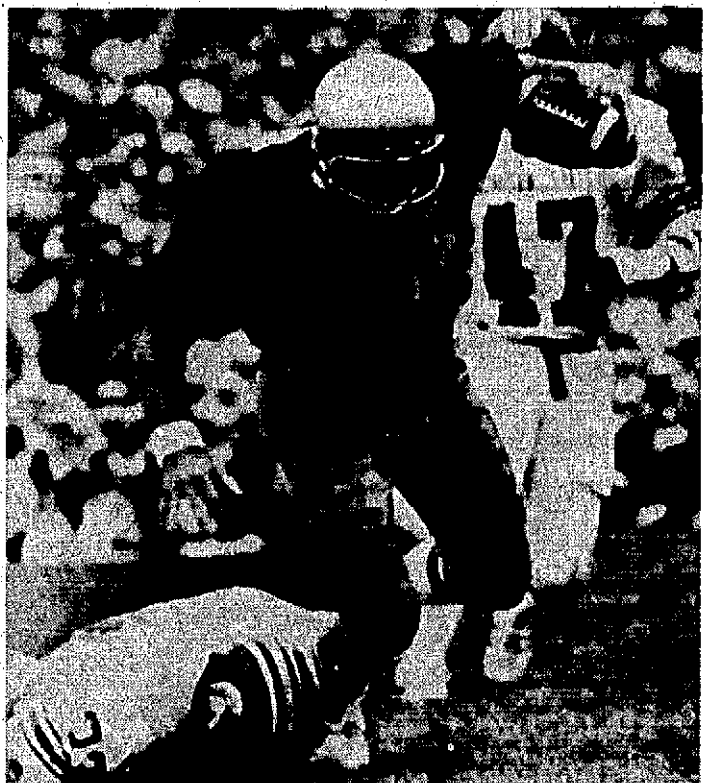

Notre Dame now has a week off before playing Army at New Jersey Stadium.

Manning scored from 11 yards out the first time New Orleans got the ball in the third quarter to make the score 28-0. Late in the period, Avellini completed four passes to get the ball to the Saints' 6. He then threw to Payton for an apparent score, but Schubert was guilty of interference and the Bears turned the ball over on downs.

In the fourth quarter, Elex Price forced Avellini to fumble and Pollard picked the ball up and rumbled for a score. "I was coming up the middle and he was coming from the outside and knocked the ball loose," said Pollard of his first touchdown in seven years. "Instinctively, you want to jump on it but I told myself the ball was bouncing, the ball was bouncing. Had it been rolling I would have jumped on it."

Payton then ran 21 yards for a touchdown, but the Saints came back with a 57-yard interception return by Jim Merlo for a score. With 1:38 left, Payton went up the middle for a one-yard tally that he set up with a 46-yard run.

Monday Night Grid Standouts Battle

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Two of Monday night football's most consistent winners, Oakland and Kansas City, tangled tonight with the Raiders favored by as many as 14 points.

The Chiefs, who have lost only twice in nine Monday night appearances, are winless in two outings this year. The injury-depleted Raiders, 8-1-1 for Monday night, have not lost a regular season or postseason game in a year.

A crowd of about 50,000 was expected for the 8:05 EDT kickoff, the 35th meeting in the once-bitter rivalry which dates to the birth of the old AFL 17 years ago.

Oakland, the defending Super Bowl champion, lost offensive tackle John Vella and linebacker Phil Villapiano in last week's 16-7 victory over Pittsburgh. Defensive back Jack Tatum was also on the questionable list.

"Any time you lose a player or players like these, it has got to hurt you," said Raider Coach John Madden. "But that's one thing we've felt that we've always had, pretty good depth. Now it's going to be tested."

The Chiefs, 5-9 the past three seasons, fashioned a 3-3 exhibition record this year and sparked hope that their much-advertised rebuilding program was beginning to bear fruit. But a season-opening loss at New England and last week's 23-7 shellacking by San Diego have put the Chiefs in danger of another dismal year.

"We are in the process of jarring and we are aware of that," said Coach Paul Wiegman. "I think we've got to evaluate just what our team is all about right now."

The evaluation resulted in free agents showing two veteran linemen off the first team. Bob Simmons will start ahead of Charlie Getty at left guard and Cliff Frazier has wrestled the left defensive tackle job from Willie Lee.

The Chiefs are also wrestling with injury woes. For the second game in a row, Ricky Wesson, another free agent, will be Kansas City's only healthy reserve in the defensive secondary.

SMC Harriers Win North Central Meet

DOWAGIAC — Saturday turned out to be a pretty good day for Southwestern Michigan University's cross country team.

The first unit won the tough North Central Invitational at Naperville, Ill., while the second team was runnerup at the Grand Rapids Invitational at Johnson Park.

The Roadrunners' first wave totaled 36 points in take the North Central crown. NAIA powerhouse Lewis College was second at 59 and host North Central, which has won the NCAA Division III title the past two years, was third with 63 points.

Dan Henderson of Wheaton College won the individual crown in 24:42 over a hilly and wet course.

The top five placemen for SMC were Calvin McQueen third (25:23), Steve Frazier fourth (25:29), Jerry Freyberg seventh (25:29), Kevin Higdon ninth (25:35) and Jim Trapani 13th (25:31). Lakeshore's Mike Mead was 24th in 26:24.

"I was real happy with the kids' performance at North Central," beamed SMC head coach Ron Gunn. "North Central is the defending champion in Division III and they were supposed to be stronger than ever this season. It was a big upset for us." Oakland University won the Grand Rapids race with 35 points. The Roadrunners were second at 59 and Lake Michigan College finished ninth in the 11-team race.

SMC's Kevin Battle, a walk-on from Bremen, Ill., won the individual title in 26:32. Other Roadrunner placemen included Wayne Scott ninth (27:30), Craig Collett 10th (27:31), Steve Toulloff 14th (27:43) and Mark Reedy 21th. Roger Daugherty of Eau Claire was LMC's first runner, finishing 55th.

Falcons Shock Broncos

Ball State Hands CMU First Loss

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Coach Elliot Uzelac, shaken over his favored Western Michigan team's loss at Bowling Green, was telling it like it is.

"We definitely aren't Mid-American champions," said Uzelac in the wake of a 34-14 Bowling Green romp Saturday. "We might have been Aug. 15 (preseason poll day), but not any more."

Uzelac is right. Surprising Kent State has gone into first place with a 2-0 league start. The Broncos are now tied for fifth with Bowling Green at 1-1.

As anticipated, nothing is predictable in the topsy-turvy conference. Kent State and Miami, yet to play its first league game, are the only schools who haven't suffered defeat.

Defending champion Ball State, atoning for a loss at Kent last week, knocked Central Michigan from the lead, handing the Chippewas their first loss in three MAC games, 28-12.

Kent State slipped into first place, thanks to Mike Whalen's performance in a 44-23 romp at injury-riddled Ohio University. Whalen ran for two scores and passed for a third touchdown.

In other games involving MAC teams Saturday, Eastern Michigan (3-1) remained a solid contender by keeping Toledo winless under new Coach Chuck Stobart 17-7.

Miami continued its comeback by beating Yale 28-14 and Northern Illinois fell to rival Illinois State 16-7 on a 77-yard punt return by Estus Hood.

"That was a big victory for us," said Bowling Green Coach Denny Stolz. "We felt we could stay in the race by winning today. This was the most physical game we've played today."

Falcon quarterback Mark Miller ran for one score and passed for another in leading Bowling Green to a 21-7 lead in the third quarter.

Kent survived Andy Vetter's passing show for Ohio. The Bobcat quarterback completed 28 of 43 passes for 394 yards and three touchdowns for three school records. He tied another one.

"The kickoff returns by Norm Warren (two for 133) and the kicking of Paul Marchese (three field goals and five conversions for 44 in a row) were great contributions," said Kent Coach Dennis Fitzgerald.

Ball State also started with a 21-0 bulge on Central Michigan, Dave Wilson running for two and George Jenkins one.

Miami, 3-1 overall, whipped Yale, coached by Redskin alumnus Carmen Cosza, on two touchdowns runs by Mark Hunter and a scoring pass from Larry Fortner to Mark Angelo. It was Yale's first intercollegiate game since 1948.

Illinois State rode the big play to its victory of Northern Illinois, sinking the Huskies' record to 0-5. Sophomore tailback Bobby Windham carried for 119 yards and a touchdown in leading Eastern Michigan past Toledo.

Mariucci Sets New State Offense Mark

From ASSOCIATED PRESS

Northern Michigan quarterback Steve Mariucci reached another milestone in his collegiate career this weekend.

Despite playing only part of the game in the Wildcats 34-9 rout of Saginaw Valley, Mariucci passed and ran for 177 yards to give him a career offensive total of 5,866. That broke the state college mark of 5,861 set by Lloyd Brazill at the University of Detroit in the 1920s.

Mariucci, a 5-11, 175-pound senior from Iron Mountain, left Saturday's game with a knee injury in the second quarter, but it was not believed serious, and he is expected to be ready for this week's game with Western Kentucky.

In other college action involving state schools, Grand Valley rolled over Northeast Illinois, 34-12; Hillsdale destroyed Wisconsin St. Norbert, 34-7; Wayne State blanked Ferris, 34-0; Adrian held off Geneva, Pa., 24-19; Albion blasted Alma, 34-6; Olivet bowed to Franklin, Ind., 34-6; Wheaton, Ill., topped Hope, 31-13; Kalamazoo out-defensed Kenyon, Ohio, for a 7-3 decision. Bemidji, Minnesota surprised Michigan Tech, 31-20, and Northwest routed Georgetown, Ky., 42-0.

Wayne State's whitewash of Ferris was keyed by Tartar Quarterback Jim Gendron, who ran for two touchdowns and passed for a third. The Great Lakes Conference tilt marked the third straight shutout for Wayne's defense. The Tartars are now 4-1 for the season and 2-0 in the GLJC. Ferris has lost all four of its games.

Freshman Doug VerMeulen rushed for 107 yards, and a touchdown in Albion's cakewalk over Michigan Intercollegiate Athletic Association rival Alma. It was the MIAA opener for both schools.

Junior halfback Doug Hewitt scored the game's only touchdown on a one-yard run in Kalamazoo's struggle with Kenyon.

Adrian got two touchdowns from freshman tailback Bobby Wood, and junior quarterback Paul Downs ran for one and passed for another in the Bulldogs' romp over Geneva.

Quarterback Scott Longenecker threw a pair of scoring passes and ran for two more touchdowns as Bemidji defeated Michigan Tech for the first time since 1968. The defeat left the Huskies with a 1-2 record in the Northern Intercollegiate Conference.

Hillsdale's Dan Kelley set the pace in the Chargers' rout of St. Norbert when he ran the opening kickoff back 82 yards for a touchdown. Fullback Steve Rodick had other TDs for Hillsdale.

As if carrying the ball 15 times for 138 yards wasn't enough, Northwest's Don Bolles also intercepted a pass and ran it back for 39 yards and a touchdown in the Northmen's rout of Georgetown.

have to eliminate the penalties or be good enough to overcome them. We were neither today."

Avellini had good protection and was on target. But James Scott dropped three passes, Roland Harper two and Bo Ralther one.

"They had a strong offensive line," said Saints' defensive end Bob Pollard, who returned a fumble 52 yards for a touchdown. "Avellini has short drops so consequently he had quite a bit of time... We rushed wide and ended up behind him."

Harper made a key block on the first touchdown by Payton six minutes into the game.

After the teams exchanged punts, New Orleans took over on the Chicago 40 and moved to the 15 on the strength of passes to Tony Galbreath and Don Herrmann. Manning ran the draw trap to the 8 and scored on the next play, which was designed as a pass.

"It was covered and I looked for my back and by the time I did I saw the opening and ran," he said.

He scored on a two-yard run around right end midway through the second quarter to cap a 72-yard drive. It included a two-yard gain by Galbreath on a fourth-and-one situation, a 22-yard third down pass to Rich Mauti for a first down, a pass interference penalty against cornerback Virgil Livers and a 14-yard dash by Manning to the Chicago 11 on a third-and-five play.

The Bears were penalized twice on the next series and punted. On their next possession, Avellini hit Harper on the hands, but the ball slipped away and Chuck Crist intercepted it.

Five plays later, Manning passed to Chuck Muncie for a 15-yard score on which Manning was trapped behind the line of scrimmage and started running to the right.

"They saw me and came up a little and that opened Muncie," he said. "It was a broken play."

Chicago got the ball back with a minute left in the half at their own 38. On the first three plays, Rather made a spectacular catch after falling for a 22-yard gain and Avellini hit Steve Schubert for 18 yards and Ralther for 14 to get the ball to the Saints' 8.

On the next play, Avellini looked up with Harper in the end zone, but Payton was called for illegal use of hands on the play and Chicago had to settle for a 21-yard field goal by Bob Thomas.

Manning scored from 11 yards out the first time New Orleans got the ball in the third quarter to make the score 28-0. Late in the period, Avellini completed four passes to get the ball to the Saints' 6. He then threw to Payton for an apparent score, but Schubert was guilty of interference and the Bears turned the ball over on downs.

In the fourth quarter, Elex Price forced Avellini to fumble and Pollard picked the ball up and rumbled for a score.

"I was coming up the middle and he was coming from the outside and knocked the ball loose," said Pollard of his first touchdown in seven years. "Instinctively, you want to jump on it but I told myself the ball was bouncing, the ball was bouncing. Had it been rolling I would have jumped on it."

Payton then ran 21 yards for a touchdown, but the Saints came back with a 57-yard interception return by Jim Merlo for a score. With 1:38 left, Payton went up the middle for a one-yard tally that he set up with a 46-yard run.

St. Joe Dethroned In Berrien Meet

The king of cross country in Berrien County has been dethroned — at least for this season.

St. Joseph, winner of the five previous Berrien County cross country meets, finished fourth in this year's event. Buchanan captured the team title with 51 points in Saturday's three-mile run at Riverview Park.

Watervliet was second with 62, Niles (third) with 70 and the Bears totaled 82 points for fourth. The other schools in order of finish were River Valley (134), Lakeshore (151), Brandywine (175), Berrien Springs (222) and Lake Michigan Catholic (224).

Brad Del Barba of Niles was the individual winner in 15:49, a new course record for Riverview. It was also the first time that a Bear runner had not finished first. St. Joseph's Bruce Goodwin was second, Tim Lynch of Watervliet third and Niles' Lynn Eady finished fourth.

Buchanan's top five placemen were Dennis Decker (fifth), Erik Mollberg (seventh), John Dougherty (11th), Tom Lear (12th) and Rich Bullock (16th).

"The Bucks used an interesting bit of training Friday in preparation for the meet.

"We played soccer," Buchanan coach Mike Rouse said. "It was a different type of training. It gave the kids a change of pace instead of just running the roads and the track."

"Soccer is the type of sport where you're sprinting and then jogging. It's good conditioning while the kids are having fun."

With defending state champion Edwardsburg in the Blossomland, Buchanan will probably be forced to settle for second in the league. So Rouse is pointing for a trip to the state meet.

"The first three teams will go in Class C," he says. "Edwardsburg will probably be one and then it's between us, Watervliet and Mattawm for the other two spots."

Watervliet's first five runners were Lynch, Mark Kappel (10th), Bruce Frazee (14th), Randy Bettich (15th) and Tim Carter (17:07).

Goodwin led the way for the Bears. The other four finishers were John Dine (13th), Andy Capes (17th), Jeff McIntire (22nd) and Mike Paul (28th).

St. Joseph won the junior varsity race with Bear Jim Wood taking the individual crown.

Sheila Varga of River Valley loured the three miles in 19:11 to take the top spot in the girls race.

Upton won the junior high team title and Upton's Mike Lanier the individual crown. St. Joseph's cross country coach Howard Kingsley won the open race in 17:18.

Morse scored on runs of 20 and 27 yards as the Blackhawks evened their record at 2-2.

Morse's first TD put Fennville on top in the first quarter. Doug Scudder passed to Mike McFarland for the two-point conversion, giving the Blackhawks an 8-0 lead.

With just 19 seconds left in the half, McFarland scored from three yards out and Ruben Saucedo's two-point run made it 18-0.

After Christian closed to within 18-6 with a touchdown in the third quarter, the Blackhawks broke the game open, scoring twice early in the final period.

Morse's second TD made it 22-6 and seconds later Fennville recovered a fumble at the Christian 40. Rod Steenburg went the final nine yards to put the game away.

"Our offensive line dominated the game," Fennville coach Gary Frens said. "We moved the ball well when we had to. We were outweighted by 15 pounds on the average."

"In the second half we had some real big third down plays that kept us with ball possession."

The Blackhawks' domination of the second half was so great that Fennville ran 18 plays in the final quarter to just three for Christian.

Wood Golf Champ

Rev. Joseph Wood of Watervliet defeated George Ruse of Watervliet 2 and 1 to take the championship flight of the Paw Paw Lake Club Championship Sunday.

Alex Jakubowski of Benton Harbor defeated George Anderson in win the first flight and Dick Fox of Watervliet was the second flight winner, topping Dana Ries.

In the ladies division, Ethel Currie of Coloma won the championship flight with a 2 and 1 victory over Lucy Sanders. Betty Stowell, also of Coloma, topped Lorraine Rodewald to win the first flight.

THEY'RE OFF: More than 60 county runners get started at the Berrien County Cross Country Meet Saturday at Riverview. Brad Del Barba of Niles won the meet in a course record time of 15:49.

Bruce Goodwin of St. Joe was second. Buchanan ended St. Joe's domination of the event, edging Watervliet and Niles for the team title. The Bears were fourth.

Low-tar Parliament

Choose more than just a number.

Any low-tar cigarette will give you a low-tar number. But there's something else that you should consider. We call it "filter feedback."

As you smoke, tar builds up on the tip of your cigarette filter. That's "filter feedback." Ordinary flush-tipped filters put that tar buildup flat against your lips.

And that's where low-tar Parliament has the advantage. Parliament's filter is recessed to keep tar buildup from touching your lips. So there's no "filter feedback." All you get is that smooth Parliament taste.

Great Pele Says Goodbye

By WILL GRIMSLEY
AP Special Correspondent
Last week, just before Muhammad Ali entered the Madison Square Garden ring against "Ernie Shavers, there was a knock on the door of his midtown hotel headquarters.
"It was Pele, the great Pele," Ali related excitedly after he had beaten Shavers in a slugging fight. "This great man humbled himself to come see me. Imagine that."
"I cried like a little boy."
It must have been one of the most momentous scenes in the history of sports — these two dynamic superstars, unquestionably the most widely acclaimed, most recognizable athletes in the world, face-to-face, trading their homespun philosophies.
The mountain had come to Muhammad.
Here were two men from not dissimilar backgrounds yet cut from widely different bolts of cloth, each commanding a fealty from the common people normally reserved for princes and pharaohs.

The mere presence of either one could tie up traffic from the Champs Elysee in Paris to St. Kilda Road in Melbourne, Australia, and stir riots from Bangkok to Boston, but, in character and personality, they are as far apart as the poles.
What, really, are the ingredients of sports charisma?
What is it that sends Ali fans into wild hysteria the moment he enters the boxing ring, his booming mouth extolling his virtues, his fists high in defiance, his big brown eyes flashing like those of an excited little boy?
What is it about the reserved, self-effacing Pele that has enabled him to fill soccer arenas on every continent of the globe and in three years turn his sport in America from a bankrupt pastime drawing little more than curious flies to a bonanza spilling fans over the 78,500-seat Giant Stadium in the Meadowlands?

"It's his humanity," says Peter Bodo, biographer of the soccer star. "He is a completely natural person — WARM, OPEN, GENTLE. He conveys the image of the common man."
Pele bade "adieu" to the sport he had played for 22 of his 36 years in a moving ceremony Saturday at the Meadowlands.
There was a sharp contrast in his good-bye and the hints of early retirement announced by Ali in a highly vocal fight aftermath at the Garden.
"I have spoiled people," Ali bellowed. "I am the greatest heavyweight who ever lived. Jack Dempsey, Rocky Marciano, Ezzard Charles — they all looked slow and clumsy compared with me. Look at the old movies. They didn't dance. They swung wild. They almost stumbled over their own feet."

While Ali talked of new riches, escalating endorsements and money ventures, Pele, the "Pearl" from a tiny village in Brazil, was giving emphasis to intangible rather than material values.
"Thank you for giving me back to my little club in Tres Coracoes," he said softly. "The important thing is to leave things and not get things. Fifty years from now I hope someone will say that Pele left a good example."
Pele is a simple, kind man, with no apparent hangups. Ali is the extrovert, more showman than fighter, evangelist, con man, unparalleled.
Both have enriched our lives.

Consistent Barber Napa Champ

MILLER BARBER
Wins 10th Tourney

NAPA, Calif. (AP) — Miller Barber did it with consistency, winning his 10th tournament title just as he has accumulated $1.2 million in his 19 years on the pro golf tour.
"It seems like every time I've been in contention lately, someone comes along and burns the grass off the place," the 46-year-old Barber said Sunday after winning the $200,000 Napa PGA tournament.
Howard Twitty, a 28-year-old pro from Arizona, came up with a searing 62, second best round on the tour this year, but it wasn't enough to beat Barber, who finished with a seven-under-par 65 on the 6,870-yard Silverado Country Club North course.

Barber posted four subpar rounds, including a 66 on the second day, for his 72-hole total of 272, which beat George Archer by two strokes and Twitty by three. Archer, who led the field by four strokes after a 63 Saturday, struggled to a 73 Sunday.
Twitty began the tournament with a 73 and went into the final round 12 strokes from the top before breaking the course record set by Johnny Miller in last year's tournament and tied by Archer Saturday.
"I think I'm still in a state of shock. I wondered how in the world George could shoot a 63 and then shoot a 62," said Twitty, who chipped in two shots for birdies and finished his round by sinking putts of 30 feet and 40 feet on the final two holes.

The only score to better Twitty's 10-under-par round this year was the all-time tour record 58 posted by Al Gelberger in the Memphis Open.
Another top finisher in the Napa event was Tom Watson, the Masters and British Open champion who tied for eighth and picked up $5,225, raising his season-leading money total to $310,000.
Barber has won only 11 tour events in his career, including the Napa tournament in 1968, but Sunday's $40,000 victory pushed him over $100,000 in winnings for the fifth year and raised his all-time total to $1,227,951, ninth highest in the sport.

SPORTS CAPSULES

GOLF
WORKSHOP, England — Guy Hunt of England claimed the first victory of his 14-year pro career when Scotland's Brian Barnes three-putted the third playoff hole and let Hunt escape with the title in the $70,000 British Masters golf tournament.
Hunt, shot a par 71 for a 291 total, seven over par, on the 6,828-yard Lindrick Golf Club course.
Manuel Pinero of Spain was third at 292, Peter Butler of Britain was fourth at 294 and Hubert Green and four others were fifth at 295.
DALLAS — Vivian Brownlee, who had never won a professional tournament in her two years as a pro, shot a one-over par 71 to capture the 22nd Dallas Civitan Open.
Brownlee carded rounds of 75-69-73 for 217 and a one-stroke victory. Her best previous finish was a tie for 18th.
AUTO RACING
WATKINS GLEN, N.Y. — James Hunt held off a late challenge from Mario Andretti and captured the Grand Prix of the United States as Niki Lauda clinched his second consecutive Formula 1 driving title.
NORTH WILKESBORO, N.C. — Darrell Waltrip, with Cale Yarborough hunkered on his heels for most of the race, pushed his Chevrolet to victory in the Wilkes 400 stock car race.
BATHURST, Australia — Australian driver Allan Moffat and Jackie Ickx of Belgium combined to capture the 10th running of Australia's top road race, the Bathurst 1000.

TENNIS
WHITE SULPHUR SPRINGS, W.Va. — Cliff Drysdale of Lakeway, Tex., scored a 6-3, 6-3 victory over Australian Roy Emerson to win the $16,000 World Tennis Invitational Tournament.
Emerson, however, was able to gain some revenge as he teamed with countryman Fred Stolle to defeat Drysdale and Roger Taylor of Britain 6-7, 6-1, 6-4 to win the doubles championship.
SAN FRANCISCO — Young Butch Walts broke top-seeded Brian Gottfried's serve twice in the final set and won the championship of $125,000 Open Tennis Tournament 4-6, 6-1, 7-5.
BASEBALL
NEW YORK — New York Yankees owner George Steinbrenner and club president Gabe Paul criticized American League President Lee MacPhail who denied the Yankees a 25th player for the league playoffs.
The Yankees fell one run below the limit in mid-September when they sent infielder Carlos May to the California Angels. Baseball rules state that post-season playing rosters must be frozen on Aug. 31.
Steinbrenner charged that MacPhail had bowed to pressure from the league's more vociferous owners.
FOOTBALL
AUSTIN, Tex. — University of Texas kicker Russell Erxleben set a major college football record Saturday when he connected on a 67-yard field goal in a 72-15 rout of Rice.
The third quarter kick broke the record set last year when Texas A&M's Tony Franklin blasted a 65-yarder.
Erxleben's kick, however, was two yards short of the small college mark. Abilene Christian's Ove Johansson booted a 69-yard field goal last season against East Texas State.
GENERAL
FRANCONIA, N.H. — World heavyweight boxing champion Muhammad Ali and social scientist Kenneth Clark were awarded honorary college degrees at New Hampshire's Franconia College Sunday.
A minor accident involving a bus carrying Ali and his family in Connecticut on Saturday did not keep him from appearing at the school.
HARTFORD, Conn. — Veteran sports writer William F. "Bill" Newell, sports editor of The Hartford Courant since 1974, died Sunday at St. Francis Hospital following a brief illness. He was 58.

Ziebart Hurt In Setback

ATLANTA — Air Force quarterback Dave Ziebart suffered a hip pointer early in the second quarter here Saturday and spent the rest of the afternoon on the sidelines in the Falcons' 20-3 loss to Georgia Tech.
The former St. Joseph high school star had hit two of five passes for 60 yards before being hurt. It is not now known whether he will be ready for this Saturday's game with Navy.

PENALTY FREE
Two Super Bowl teams have gone through an entire championship game without incurring a penalty. The Miami Dolphins did it against the Dallas Cowboys while losing, 24-3, in 1972. And Pittsburgh also did it against Dallas in 1976 while winning, 21-17.

Lanier Sparks Piston Victory

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — A go-ahead basket by Bob Lanier with five seconds remaining in the game propelled the Detroit Pistons to an 88-86 National Basketball Association exhibition victory over Cleveland on Sunday.

Lanier sank a soft hook shot after taking a pass from M.L. Carr to cap a Detroit comeback. The Pistons center and captain led all scorers with 21 points. He also collected 15 rebounds.

Former Michigan star Campy Russell scored 15 points to pace the Cavaliers, who led 49-38 at halftime and never trailed in the game until the frantic final seconds. Carr scored 17 points for Detroit.

Cold shooting plagued both clubs. Cleveland hit just 38 per cent from the floor and the Pistons 43 per cent.

Penn State, Arizona State Upset Victims LSU Regaining Lost Respect

From ASSOCIATED PRESS

Like comedian Rodney Dangerfield, Michigan and Louisiana State hadn't been getting no respect lately. Don't know about you, Rod, but the two college football teams changed their luck over the weekend.

Despite all of Coach Bo Schembechler's claims during the week that no team could play Texas A&M on even terms and win because of super placekicker Tony Franklin, Michigan's third-ranked Wolverines went out and pounded the fifth-ranked Aggies 41-3.

And Saturday night, LSU's Tigers showed that they might be ready to return to the Southeastern Conference's higher echelons with a 38-14 trouncing of ninth-ranked Florida.

"I told the players, 'What you did tonight is you bought some respect.' I can't thank the players and coaching staff enough," said grinning Coach Charlie McClendon, who has been under fire from LSU's overzealous supporters for a number of years.

They were after McClendon's scalp down in the bayous but things may have quieted down some thanks to tailback Charles Alexander — 169 yards and two touchdowns — and quarterback Steve Ensminger, who added two more TDs.

Meanwhile, Michigan

bounced back impressively from unimpressive squeakers over Duke (21-9) and Navy (14-7) that dropped the Wolverines, helped by some urging from Schembechler, from No. 1 to No. 3 in The Associated Press ratings.

Besides Texas A&M and Florida, two other members of the Top Twenty went down to defeat — No. 4 Penn State fell to Kentucky, 24-20 and No. 20 Arizona State was whitewashed by Missouri 15-0.

Meanwhile, top-rated Oklahoma beat Kansas 24-9. No. 6 Ohio State smacked Southern Methodist 35-7. No. 7 Colorado blanked Army 31-0. No. 8 Texas destroyed Rice 72-15 and No. 10 Alabama downed Georgia 18-10.

In the Second Ten, it was No. 11 Nebraska over Indiana 31-13. No. 12 Arkansas whipping Texas Christian 42-6. No. 13 Texas Tech edging North Carolina 10-7. No. 14 Notre Dame over Michigan State 16-6. No. 16 Pitt blasting Boston College 45-7. No. 17 California mauling San Jose State 52-3. No. 18 Mississippi State shading Kansas State 24-21 and No. 19 Houston beating Baylor 28-24.

Friday night, second-ranked Southern California humiliated Washington State 41-7 as tailbacks Charles White and Dwight Ford combined for 240 yards and No. 15 Brigham Young walloped New Mexico 54-19 as Gifford Nielsen, who threw six touchdown passes last week, hooked on five more.

Kentucky rallied twice to beat Penn State for the second year in row. The Wildcats trailed 10-0 when Dallas Owens raced 23 yards with a first-period interception. However, Kentucky had to come from behind again in the third period on Joe Bryant's 30-yard field goal. Derrick Ramsey's 1-yard run and some Fran Curet coaching.

Freshman quarterback Phil Bradley led previously winless Missouri over error-prone — seven turnovers — Arizona State by throwing a 33-yard touchdown pass to Joe Stewart and running over from a yard out.

Thomas Lott scored three times to lead Oklahoma past Kansas and Howard Ballage tilled on runs of 10 and 39 yards and Mark Mayne dashed 97 yards with an interception as Colorado trimmed Army.

Earl Campbell scored four times and Russell Erdelen bouted a major college record 67-yard field goal in Texas' mauling of Rice while Alabama used Roger Chapman's three field goals, two fumble recoveries by Wayne Hamilton and Ricky Tucker's late interception to hold off Georgia.

Elsewhere, I.M. (for Isaiah Moses) Hipp rushed for a school record 251 yards as Nebraska whipped Indiana and Ben Cowins run for three TDs as Arkansas extended TCU's losing streak, the nation's longest, to 15 games.

Quarterback Mark Johnson, playing his first varsity game, scored Texas Tech's only touchdown against North Carolina while Dave Reece kicked field goals from 42, 49 and 51 yards as Notre Dame defeated Michigan State.

Another freshman quarterback, Pitt's Rick Trucana, scored twice and passed for a third touchdown as the Panthers thumped Boston College. Charlie Young completed eight of nine passes in the first half, six to George Prettas, as California piled up a 42-0 halftime lead and rolled over San Jose State.

Bruce Threadgill's 25-yard pass to Dennis Johnson with 1:16 to play lifted Mississippi State past Kansas State and Don Bass caught a 10-yarder from Derrick Brown with 39 seconds remaining, enabling Houston to turn back Baylor.

In other games, North Carolina State ended Maryland's record 21-game Atlantic Coast Conference winning streak 24-20 on Johnny Evans' 2-yard plunge with 27 seconds left and Grambling State's Doug Williams passed for 329 yards and five touchdowns in a 70-7 rout of Prairie View A&M.

Central State of Ohio, down by 17 points 12 seconds before halftime, was pulled off the field by Coach Maurice Hunt because of what he said were bad calls by the officials, giving Tennessee State a 1-0 forfeit.

Red Wings Gain Third Straight Tie

KALAMAZOO, Mich. (AP) — The Detroit Red Wings are still looking for their first victory of the National Hockey League exhibition season after gaining their third consecutive tie.

Two former Detroit players, Pierre Jarry and Bill Hogboom, helped the Minnesota North Stars salvage a 3-3 tie with the Wings here Sunday night.

Jarry scored Minnesota's first goal, Hogboom assisted on the second, and both collected assists as Bill Fairbairn fired in the tying goal.

Fairbairn's goal, a short backhand at 1:49 of the third period, went in over outstretched Red Wing goalie Jim Rutherford, who had blocked successive slap shots by Jarry and Hogboom.

Veterans Nick Libbitt and Danny Grant and rookie Rob Plumb scored for Detroit. Libbitt's goal, his first of the preseason, was a shorthanded effort.

Yanks, Royals Battle Again Repeat In AL Playoffs

NEW YORK (AP) — It took 162 games and six months of struggling, but the Kansas City Royals and New York Yankees are right back where they left off a year ago — battling for the American League pennant.

The best-of-five series begins Wednesday in New York with a day game. The two teams play Thursday night in Yankee Stadium and then move to Kansas City for a night game Friday. Then, if they are needed, they'll play a day game Saturday and a night game Sunday. The winner then hosts the first two games of the World Series, which begins in the American League city Tuesday, Oct. 11.

One pitch separated the two division champions a year ago. They went down to the ninth inning of the fifth playoff game before Chris Chambliss blasted a dramatic home run that put the Yankees in the World Series for the first time since 1964.

Both teams suffered through difficult times this season as they sought to repeat their division titles. The Yankees, in a soap-opera atmosphere, had a summer of discontent, often arguing with each other on and off the field. The Royals became involved in a four-team battle in the West with strong and surprising challenges from Texas, Chicago and Minnesota.

In early August, the Yankees, who spent much of the season's early months in third place, seemed to straighten out. The turnaround, which included a string of 40 victories in 50 games, started when Reggie Jackson was inserted into the cleanup spot in the batting order. Jackson, the center of much of the clubhouse controversy, responded with a rash of home runs and runs batted in that pushed his season's total in both departments up among the league leaders.

Third baseman Graig Nettles, voted the club's Most Valuable Player in a poll of the players, swung a lethal bat and catcher Thurman Munson, last year's American League MVP, also supplied plenty of power. Jackson, Nettles and Munson teamed for more than 85 home runs and more than 300 runs batted in.

The attack's table setter was leadoff man Mickey Rivers, the club's leading hitter, whose speed often sets up Yankee rallies.

Chambliss and outfielders Roy White and Lou Piniella rounded out the offense that finished tied for the AL lead in hitting with Boston and Minnesota with a .280 batting average.

The defense was airtight with second baseman Willie Randolph and shortstop Bucky Dent doing an almost flawless job up the middle.

Pitching was the Yankees' problem but three hurlers were consistently outstanding. Slight Ron Guidry demonstrated an explosive fastball that made him the staff's biggest winner and most dependable starter and relievers Sparky Lyle and Dick Tidrow had long stretches in which they pitched almost daily.

Mike Turetz and Ed Figueroa hurled well, but strangely, the best winning percentage on the staff belonged to Don Gullett, who won 14 games despite long stretches when he was sidelined by injuries.

Like the Yankees, Kansas City moved to the top with a hot streak that started in mid-June and never let up until they clinched the division crown on Sept. 23. The Royals played at a 68-24 pace that included streaks of eight, 10 and 18 consecutive victories. The 16-game winning streak was the longest by any major league team in 24 seasons.

The Royals were 28-31, tied for sixth place, seven games behind; when they caught fire. They reached first place for the first time all season on Aug. 20 and then nailed down the title with a sizzling September that included 20 victories in 21 games.

Individually, the Royals have gotten outstanding seasons from a host of players. Al Cowens and George Brett both batted well over .300 and those two as well as Hal McRae and John Mayberry all had more than 20 homers and 80 RBI apiece.

The eighth and ninth men in the batting order, Frank White and Freddie Patek, have combined for more than 100 RBI and Patek led the league in steals.

Dennis Leonard and Paul Splittorff were the pitching leaders, winning 30 of 35 decisions between them during the June-August streak. Leonard, a 20-game winner, was 15-3 and Splittorff 15-2 during that stretch.

Marty Pattin won nine of his last 10 starts and Doug Bird keyed the bullpen with 13 saves, all of them since Aug. 1.

Splittorff probably will start Wednesday's playoff opener for the Royals with Gullett going for the Yankees.

Olympic TV Tab Is $100 Million

WASHINGTON (AP) — The president of NBC television told Congress today the network will pay more than $100 million to broadcast the 1980 Summer Olympic Games in Moscow, at least $15 million more than previously indicated.

"NBC does not take this figure lightly," Robert E. Mulholland said in remarks prepared for a House communications subcommittee, adding that the company expects "to make a reasonable profit on the Olympics."

But he did not say how much profit the National Broadcasting Co. is projecting.

Mulholland testified as the committee, under the chairmanship of Rep. Lional Van Deerlin, D-Calif., opened its investigation into the relationship between the television networks and sports.

Mulholland told the committee that the Soviet Union placed no restrictions on the coverage.

"We have made no concessions to journalistic integrity, nor will we make them," he said.

NBC agreed to pay $35 million for the television rights and $50 million for technical services to the Soviet broadcasting organization, Gos-teleradio.

The German middleman, Lothar Bock, who worked with the network and the Soviets, is getting another $1 million for his services.

Mulholland said that in addition to the basic $86 million NBC is paying the Soviet Union, it will spend another $15 million or more on other costs, including the purchasing of equipment, hiring talent, satellite transmissions and transportation for its workers.

He said the network has agreed to spend an additional $2 million to hire interpreters, buy extra equipment at some of the Olympic sites to provide individual coverage of events, and for additional space.

Mulholland said that, while the production will be under NBC's control, "no one guarantees that the Soviets will not 'pull the plug' as some critics have suggested they will. Obviously, they have the physical ability to do so."

Pitching Aces Eye NL Opener

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Two of the finest left-handed pitchers in baseball this season will be looking at a number of long ball threats Tuesday night when the Philadelphia Phillies and Los Angeles Dodgers open the National League's best-of-five playoff series.

On the mound for the Phillies will be Steve Carlton, the winningest pitcher in the majors with a 23-10 record. Tommy John, 20-7, will pitch for the Dodgers.

Both pitchers have had up-and-down careers. Carlton was traded to the Phillies by St. Louis after compiling a 20-9 record during the 1971 season.

In his first year in Philadelphia, Carlton had a 27-10 mark, a 1.96 earned run average and won the NL's Cy Young Award. But he slipped to 13-20 the following season although he has won 30 or better in each of the past two seasons.

John ruptured a ligament in his left elbow midway in the 1974 season and missed the rest of that year and all of 1975. Many thought he would never pitch again, but he earned NL Comeback of the Year honors in 1976 by splitting 20 decisions and had his finest year ever this season.

Carlton has a 2.64 ERA. John is close behind at 2.76. Both were 1-1 against each other's teams this year.

The Dodgers will confront Carlton with a lineup that includes four sluggers who hit 30 home runs or better each this year, the first time that's ever been accomplished.

Three of the four — Steve Garvey (33 homers), Ron Cey (30) and Dusty Baker (30) bat from the right side while Reggie Smith (32) is a switch-hitter. Carlton will face nine righthanded batters because Davey Lopes, Bill Russell, Steve Yeager, Glenn Burke and John all swing from the right side.

John will also face righthanded power. In Greg Luzinski and Mike Schmidt, John will be confronted by a total of 77 homers. Luzinski socked 38 while Schmidt blasted 38.

The series seems to be evenly-matched, at least on paper. The teams split a dozen games, each winning four at home. The Phillies had 101 victories and the Dodgers 88. Both have fine defenses, explosive offenses and good pitching.

Don Sutton, 14-8, will pitch for the Dodgers against Jim Lonborg, 11-4, in the second game of the series Wednesday night. The Dodgers' Burt Hooton, 12-7, will be matched against Larry Christenson, 19-4, when the series moves to Philadelphia Friday. The fourth and fifth games, if needed, will be next weekend.

The Phillies are in the playoffs for the second straight year. They lost three straight to Cincinnati last fall.

Crowds in excess of 52,000 are expected at Dodger Stadium Tuesday and Wednesday nights. Both games are sold out.

Big 10 Respectable In Non-League Play

From ASSOCIATED PRESS

Big Ten football teams, having carved a respectable 16-12 record against nonconference foes including third-ranked Michigan's astounding 41-1 victory over fifth-ranked Texas A&M, return to conference wars this week with some interesting matchups.

Michigan faces arch-rival Michigan State, a 16-6 loser to Notre Dame, but both teams are 1-0 in the Big Ten, Michigan having defeated Illinois and Michigan State having defeated Purdue the opening weekend of the season.

Ohio State and Iowa also are 1-0 in the Big Ten while Wisconsin leads the pack with a 2-0 record on the strength of a 19-7 victory over Northwestern in last week's only conference game.

"We're in first place and somebody's going to have to take it away from us," said Wisconsin Coach John Jardine. Although the Badgers are unranked, Jardine said "There are only about 18 teams in the country that are 4-0 and I'm very proud that we're among them."

The Badgers could well go to 5-0 if they get past invading Illinois which has a 1-3 record after suffering a 30-20 setback at the hands of Syracuse.

Rounding out the schedule, Minnesota will be at Iowa, Indiana at Northwestern and Purdue at Ohio State.

Minnesota defeated Washington 19-17 on Paul Boyd's 32-yard field goal with five seconds to play; Iowa dropped a 34-18 decision at UCLA and Indiana fell in Nebraska 31-13.

Purdue and Ohio State warmed up for their encounter with victories Saturday. Purdue passed its way to a 26-17 victory over Wake Forest and Ohio State intercepted its way to a 36-7 triumph over Southern Methodist. The Buckeyes intercepted seven passes.

"I just couldn't ask our defense to play any better," said Coach Woody Hayes. "Their quarterback threw it pretty well, but we intercepted it better."

Purdue's freshman quarterback Mark Herrmann completed 22 of 37 passes for 252 yards and two touchdowns against Wake Forest. He has thrown for 1,224 yards in four games and is averaging 22 completions and 30 attempts a game.

Against Wake Forest, Herrmann completed his first eight passes and threw for two touchdowns in the first quarter of a game which also featured four field goals by Scott Sovereign.

Retired? Living on a limited income? For $3.39 a month, look into...

Two-Party Budget Service: Another idea from Michigan Bell that can save you money on your monthly bills.

When everything's going up but your income, monthly bills can get tougher to handle all the time. That's one reason why Michigan Bell offers a low-cost phone service especially appealing to people with limited incomes, such as retirees, the unemployed and those who need a minimum of telephone service. It's called two-party Budget Service and it costs just $3.39 a month, plus tax.

Two-party Budget Service is about the lowest-cost phone service in the country. You share a two-party line and get an allowance of 45 local calls per month (or its equivalent in Interzone units*). Extra local calls are 5¢ each.

Also available in metro Detroit and larger exchanges around the state, is one-party Budget Service. This service costs $5.85 a month (plus tax) and provides an allowance of 51 local calls a month (or its equivalent in Interzone units*). Extra local calls are 5¢ each. Either Budget Service may prove your answer to reducing your monthly phone bill and freeing up money for other important expenditures. For complete details, just call your Michigan Bell Business Office and talk to a service representative about it.

NOTE: There may be a delay in obtaining Budget Service in some areas because of a temporary shortage of facilities. We've placed "rush" orders for the necessary equipment. Rural zone charges apply in certain areas.

*Applies only to Interzone units in the Detroit, Grand Rapids and Pontiac areas.

Budget Service may reduce your monthly phone bill, making extra money available for other important needs, and still providing you with excellent low-cost phone service!

A Michigan Bell service representative can tell you all about low-cost Budget Service and other ways you get the most for your money out of your phone service.

Van Buren Offices Setting Up Shop At New Locations

By DENNIS COGSWELL
Paw Paw Bureau

PAW PAW — If you haven't been by the Van Buren County Courthouse here lately, be prepared for some changes.

Under a plan approved by county commissioners, a number of courthouse departments will be moved to different offices in order to give everybody a little bit more elbow room.

Juvenile court offices have already been moved to the second floor of the courthouse addition. The probate court is scheduled to move to the annex in the next several weeks, as soon as a shipment of new furniture arrives.

In turn, the prosecutor's office will move into the space vacated by probate court, and the drain commissioner and equalization offices will take up residence in the old juvenile court area.

The annex, opened in June, 1976 at a cost of $580,000, houses Seventh District Court on the first floor. Completion of work on the second floor, at an additional $75,000, was accomplished last month. All the work on the annex was federally funded.

The second floor of the annex now includes a courtroom for probate and juvenile cases, interview rooms, offices, and storage space.

"I'm real pleased with the way things turned out," said Probate Judge Frank Willis. "The new setup gives us a lot more room to work in."

The moves of the various departments are expected to be phased in over the next several months as space becomes available. Commissioners have indicated that there will also be limited remodeling of some offices.

Other scheduled changes include:

— Moving the tax description office into the space vacated by the equalization department.

— Giving the Friend of the Court's office space vacated by the drain commissioner.

— Offices behind the old district courtroom have been allocated to the circuit court judge's law clerk and court reporter.

— Space under the main stairs in the basement of the courthouse will be used for the newly-created job of state probation office employment specialist.

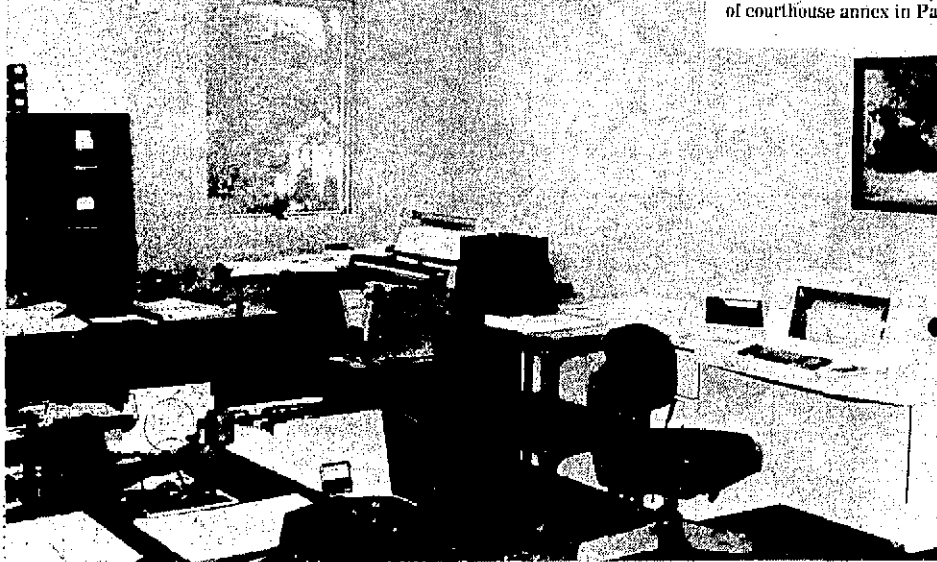

— The county's new personnel and planning director will move into the office vacated by the prosecutor.

— A partitioned area in the courthouse basement formerly used by the county manpower coordinator will be dismantled.

scheduled to become fully operational Jan. 1, will replace old computer system.

Absent Berrien County Officials Criticized

COLOMA — The Watervliet and Coloma township representatives to the Paw Paw Lake Improvement board Saturday afternoon criticized two Berrien county officials, also members of the board, for failing to attend the last two called meetings.

Lake Board Chairman Arthur Anderson and Secretary John Cannaven, leveled the criticism at County Drain Commissioner Carl Gnodtke and County Commissioner R.J. "Bob" Burkholz.

"We have very important business to resolve," said Anderson. "Including the setting of the amounts of the assessment district to pay for the removal of lake weeds from Paw Paw lake and attempt to settle the long standing court suit against the board."

"But we can't do anything until we have a quorum, and I'm sure the remaining board members know it," added Anderson. "I feel this board has been insulted by the lack of attendance of the county officials."

The board has five members in all and needs three for a quorum.

Anderson and Cannaven said both county officials and another board member Leon Cook, a Department of Natural Resources representative on the board failed to attend the called meeting on both Sept. 9 and Oct. 1.

Both township appointees said they realized Cook had a longer distance to travel, from Lansing, and his absence could be justified, but not the county officials' absences.

Burkholz this morning said he had received notice of the Saturday meeting and notified board members in advance that he would not be able to attend because of prior commitments.

Gnodtke said he received notice of the Sept. 9 meeting at his home and told board he would be unable to attend. He said he received no mail notice at his home of the Saturday meeting and has been on vacation.

Cannaven said Gnodtke, Burkholz and Cook are on the board because of a state law. If they can't make the meetings, they could at least name someone to act in their behalf so the board could conduct business, Cannaven said.

According to Cannaven, the board must resolve the court suit in Berrien Circuit Court involving the assessing so that the tax assessment roll may be forwarded to both township supervisors for inclusion on the 1977 tax rolls.

"Time is running out to get all of these areas done in order to spread the tax assessment, so we'll have the funds needed next summer to undertake the lake weed removal project," according to Cannaven.

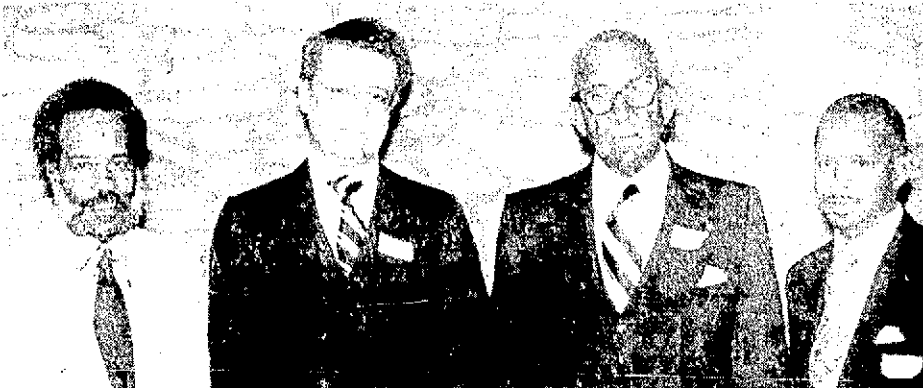

"It makes one wonder," added Cannaven, "if our county officials can't attend our meetings, of which they're members by state law, just how well are they representing the public overall?"

Anderson said he was disappointed the county officials have declined to participate in the past two called meetings of the lake board and have so little interest in a problem of great importance to all Paw Paw lake area residents.

LaGrange Recall Petitions Filed

CASSOPOLIS — Petitions seeking the recall of Bernard Roethel, LaGrange Township supervisor, have been submitted to Frank Winebrenner, township clerk.

Winebrenner said that the petitions, carrying 238 signatures, were submitted to him Thursday by the LaGrange Township Taxpayer's Association. Robert Thompson and Robert Smith, co-chairmen of the association, submitted the petitions, he added.

Winebrenner said he has 15 days in which to verify the petitions and then send them to the Cass County clerk's office for review. If enough signatures are verified, a recall election would be scheduled. Winebrenner said he doubted whether a recall vote could be held until sometime in December.

The petitions allege "misconduct in office" by Roethel over a controversial reassessment of property in the township made last summer. The association has claimed in the past that too many property owners never had the chance to appeal the reassessments before the township tax review board.

The development is the latest in the controversy. Roethel verbally announced at a May township board meeting he was going to resign. Winebrenner added, however, that Roethel has never submitted a written resignation to the board and therefore remained in office

Total volume for the weekend was 5,893 packages brought in on 173 grower loads.

Steel Strike In 3rd Day At Detroit

DETROIT (AP) — McLouth Steel Corp. expressed hope that contract talks would resume today as a strike by some 4,000 steel workers entered its third day.

No bargaining was reported Sunday, but a company spokesman said the firm was optimistic that negotiations would resume. The walkout has forced McLouth to shut three downriver Detroit steel mills.

Members of two United Steelworkers locals struck McLouth, the nation's 11th largest steel producer, at 12:01 a.m. Saturday, after their three-year contract expired.

The strikers include operating, maintenance, office and technical workers.

A company spokesman said leaders of USW Locals 2658 and 7980, which represent the striking workers, refused to accept contracts previously ratified by the USW at other steel companies.

McLouth supplies steel for auto, appliance and tubing industry.

INVESTORS' GUIDE

Insurance Could Be Switched To Bonds

BY SAM SHULSKY

Q. I am elderly and still paying monthly premiums on an insurance policy. The agent suggested I turn the policy into a bond fund managed by the same company which would pay me about 5 per cent and free me from the monthly premium payment. I've always been suspicious of getting something for nothing.

A. And it's a well-founded suspicion, too. However —

You are NOT getting something for nothing in this instance. You are, instead, exchanging an insurance policy for an income investment. And, if the figures are favorable, it could well be a fine idea.

Let's assume you have a $5,000 life insurance policy that has a cash value of $3,000 — which could be reinvested in the bond fund. Instead of paying a premium to maintain that $5,000 worth of insurance you would begin receiving $240 a year in income from the bond fund. Since this insurance company is a reputable organization I would assume the $3,000 invested in bonds would continue to represent an investment of that amount — give or take some bond market changes. You don't say whom you are protecting with this policy, but if the protection could be reduced from $5,000 to around $3,000 and bring in $240 a year PLUS the saving of the premiums now being paid out, I think you could well consider the switch.

It's not something for nothing; it's a switch in the work you select for your assets.

Q. I wanted a 90-day loan of one-third the value of some E bonds. I didn't want to cash the E's because of the tax involved. But I could find no lending institution that would take them as collateral. What is going on? Don't they have any faith in the government?

A. They have a lot of faith in the government — witness their huge holdings of U.S. Treasury bonds. But E bonds are not negotiable, MAY NOT be used as collateral for loans. (Frankly, I've always considered this restriction a "plus").

Q. We hold stock which we bought years ago in a custodian account for our children. They have now reached their majority. How do we transfer the shares?

A. Ask the bank (or company) transfer agent — named on the stock certificate — for the proper forms.

Q. Recently I bought some options on a stock, paying 15¢. A friend has since told me he bought some on the same day at 15¢ — which seems quite a spread on such a transaction. Can you check the price?

A. Sorry, but there is no way I can help. This is a matter between you and your broker. If one could spend hours checking the various brokers active in that market I suppose he could find, at different hours of the day, such a spread. And who is to say your broker did, or did not, trade as shrewdly as would be expected of him?

Stocks Move Ahead

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market moved ahead today, riding the momentum of last week's rally.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials rose a fraction in early trading.

Advances took a 5-1/2 lead over declines among New York Stock Exchange-listed issues.

Analysts said traders seemed to have been encouraged by the market's strength toward the end of last week, when it rebounded sharply from its lowest level in more than a year and a half.

Today's early prices included Sony, unchanged at 85 1/2; Citicorp, up 1/2 at 25; American Cyanamid, 1/4 higher at 27 1/2; and Great Western Financial, steady at 25.

On Friday the Dow Jones industrial average picked up 7.02 to 847.11 after a 5.37 gain in the preceding session.

Gainers outpaced losers by more than a 2-1/2 margin on the New York Stock Exchange.

Big Board volume reached 21.17 million shares, against 21.16 million on Thursday.

The NYSE's composite index added 37 to 52.81.

U.P. May Be Spud Heaven

MARQUETTE, Mich. (AP) —

Lurking beneath the beauty and isolation of the Upper Peninsula lies the potential for producing the super potato.

At least that's the assessment of a Michigan State University extension crop specialist.

"Potatoes tend to be very susceptible to insect and disease damage carried by air currents from field to field in the more populated areas of the state," said Richard Leep.

"Up here, because there is often quite a distance between potato growers, chances of disease or insect infestation are drastically reduced compared to other production regions," he added.

U.P. growers, extension field agents and other specialists have been working for nearly 50 years to develop the area's production potential, Leep said.

But the development has been hindered by high equipment costs, he said. In addition, it takes a long time for farmers to learn how to grow the specialized seed potato stock, he added.

The potential grower starts with seed that has been screened for quality and absence of disease, and planting must be done in carefully prepared soil.

From there the procedure begins to resemble a surgical operation.

Individual potatoes are cut in half with sterilized knives, and growers are urged to wear gloves to help prevent the possibility of disease.

As the crop grows, the plants are inspected daily for insect or disease damage. At harvest time, samples are shipped to laboratories to undergo another inspection.

The firms where the samples are produced are listed along with the individual samples. If any diseases are found, this allows the sample to be quickly traced to the producer.

COURT FIGHT CONTINUES

Phosphate Soap Ban Is Being Phased In

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Michigan markets are phasing out phosphate-based detergents in line with a new state law, but soap makers are continuing their court battle to stop the ban.

Retailers who still have high-phosphate detergents on their store shelves have been told by the state attorney general that they may sell the rest of their inventory.

But new stock purchases must contain no more than 0.5 per cent phosphorus.

A spot check of Detroit-area supermarkets chains today showed none of them expected any problems phasing in the non-phosphate detergents as required by the law which took effect Saturday.

"It would be chaotic if we had to withdraw all the phosphate detergents immediately," a spokesman for Detroit-area A&P markets said. "But since we're allowed to sell out our stock and replace it with the low-phosphate products, there shouldn't be any problem."

A Chatham spokesman, Will Roberts, said his chain stopped ordering high-phosphate products about two weeks ago in anticipation of the ban. "When what we have is gone, that's it," Roberts said.

None of the retailers contacted expected any price increases because of the switch. "As I understand it," one said, "there is very little cost difference between making detergents with phosphates and without." Similar bans are in effect in New York, Indiana, Chicago, Dane County, Fla., and Akron, Ohio. A ban approved by the Vermont Legislature takes effect next spring.

The Michigan ban was approved in August by the state Natural Resources Commission.

State water quality officials say the law will be a boon to the Great Lakes and inland waters which grow weed-choked and stagnant if too much phosphate is present. They estimate about 40 per cent of Michigan's 11,000 inland lakes show signs of a

AREA POLICE ROUNDUP

Rape, Robbery, Shooting
Top Weekend Complaints

Twin City area police reported they investigated a variety of complaints of crimes over the weekend, including reports of a street robbery and beating, rape, a shooting, stolen cars and other thefts.

Two Three Oaks men reported they were beaten and robbed by five or six men early Sunday morning, according to Benton Harbor police.

Patrolman Deimar Lange said he was on routine patrol at 6 a.m. Sunday when he saw Everett Carpenter, 28, and Everett Painter, 50, both of Route 2, Box 228, Kaiser Road, walking on Fair Avenue near East Main Street.

Lange said both men were suffering from facial bruises and cuts and reported they were robbed of their wallets containing unknown amounts of cash. The men reported their assailants also took the keys to Painter's car, according to Lange.

The officer said the men were unable to tell him where the alleged assault took place. Police said they declined hospital treatment.

A Benton Harbor woman told city police Sunday morning two men broke into her home and raped her, according to officers who responded to a call from the Mercy Hospital emergency room.

Patrolman George Hawblitzel said the 47-year-old woman told him she was choked by the men during the attack which occurred between 5 a.m. and 5:45 a.m.

Hawblitzel reported the woman was treated at the hospital and released. She was unable to provide descriptions of her assailants because her home was dark during the attack, the officer said.

Burnetta Henry, 49, of 736 Pearl St., Benton Harbor, was booked at Berrien County Jail Saturday for investigation of a charge of assault with intent to commit murder after another woman was shot, according to Benton Harbor police.

Sarah Adkins, 43, of 1178 Ozden Ave., Benton Harbor, was admitted to Mercy Hospital for treatment of a bullet wound in the thigh and released Sunday noon, the hospital reported.

Police said the shooting occurred at 2133 Highland Ave., Benton township, the residence of Nathan Henry, 51, identified as the estranged husband of Burnetta Henry.

Det. Robert Shepherdson said Sarah Adkins was wounded by a .38-caliber slug.

Benton Township police said this morning they are seeking a warrant for the arrest of a man who allegedly struck a 19-year-old woman in the head with a wooden club outside a bar early today.

Patrolman John Murphy said Sheryl Denise Jacobs, of 361 Burton, Benton Township, reported she walked out of the East End Bar & Grill, 665 East Main, at 2:15 a.m. and a man she had argued with earlier struck her in the forehead with what appeared to be a rake or hoe handle. She was treated at Mercy Hospital for a cut on the forehead and released, according to Murphy.

Benton Township police received reports of two stolen cars early Sunday morning. Police said one of the cars was recovered by Salus Township police at the scene of house burglary.

Shirley Cassell reported at 1 a.m. that her father's 1971 Lincoln was stolen from his residence. She and her father, whom she identified as Shelby Kelley, reside at 628 N. Crystal Ave., Benton Township, she said. She said the keys were in the car and that it had been taken within the past four hours.

The theft was broadcast on the police radio by Benton Township police. Salus Township police called and said the car was found Saturday at 11 p.m. parked in front of a house on Gray Street.

Sodus Township police said the theft was broadcast on the police radio by Benton Township police. Salus Township police called and said the car was found Saturday at 11 p.m. parked in front of a house on Gray Street.

they surprised a burglar in the house. He ran away, leaving the car and a television from the Gray Street house near the car, Sodus Township police told Benton Township officers.

Bobby Simmons, of 139 Madeline Ave., reported his 1970 Chevrolet was stolen from his home sometime between 7:30 a.m. Saturday and 4:30 a.m. Sunday, when he reported the theft to Benton Township officers.

James Blanchard, a guard at the Benton Harbor K-mart, took a shoplifting suspect into custody outside the store 2:30 p.m. Saturday, according to Benton Harbor police.

Blanchard told police he was in the store when he saw a man put on a $36 coat and leave without paying for the coat. Blanchard struggled with the man in the K-mart parking lot and handcuffed him until police arrived, he told officers.

Benton Harbor police booked Freddie Smith, 32, of 193 N. Winans St., Benton Harbor, for investigation of a charge of larceny in a building. Smith was lodged in the county jail.

Two city area police reported three motorists were booked for investigation of charges of carrying concealed weapons. They were identified as:

William Nelson, who Benton Harbor police said gave addresses of both 1180 Columbus Ave., Benton Harbor, and Bonulus, Mich., after a car was stopped Sunday a Britain and Fair avenues. Patrolman Deimar Lange said a knife with a seven-inch blade was seized.

Robert Dayton Click, 31, of Econdito, Calif., was stopped on 144 in Benton Township Sunday, and a pistol was seized according to Troopers George Tiernan and Doug Murphy of the Benton Harbor post.

Clarence E. Appleberry, 30, Springfield, Ill., was stopped on 144 in St. Joseph Township early today. Troopers Tiernan and Murphy reported a .22-caliber pistol was seized.

St. Joseph Township police reported Sunday that two downriggers valued at a total of $500 were stolen from a boat owned by Lefroy Halanika, 1535 Miami Rd., while the boat was stored in a driveway at his home.

Township police said Corn LaViolette, 712 Miller Lane, reported her wallet containing personal papers and $103 was taken from her purse which was inadvertently left at Chickhaven Restaurant, 2870 Niles Rd., Friday night.

Millon Ponders, of 1735 Territorial, told Benton Township police Sunday $120 cash was stolen from his home between 1 and 3:30 p.m. Police reported Ponders said $100 in currency was taken from a file box, while $20 in change was missing from a piggy bank.

Jamie Farmer, 25, of 261 Elvern Drive, told Benton Township officers a handgun valued at $50 was stolen from her home Sunday afternoon, police said.

Vera Litter, of 910 Kingsley Ave., St. Joseph, told city police $60 cash was taken from her home Friday evening. The thief entered through her unlocked front door, police said. She reported the theft Saturday evening, police said.

St. Joseph police said Phyllis Jane Phillips, of 2824 Sunnyside, reported Sunday four wire hampers valued at a total of $150 were stolen from her car while the auto was parked in a garage at that address.

Benton Harbor police reported five thefts including:

—A CB radio valued at $179 from an auto owned by Grattan Nowlen, of 1708 Niles Ave., St. Joseph, while the car was parked on the 200 block of Territorial Road.

—A stereo valued at $100 from the apartment of Lorraine Woodard, of 807 Edwards Ave.

—A battery valued at $40 from a pickup truck owned by George Wolf, while the truck was parked behind the market he owns at 449 Pipestone St.

—Pennies totaling $40 in a large wire bottle stolen from the Alice Elter residence, 428 E. Britain Ave.

Benton Harbor police received two unrelated complaints of vandalism from city residents Saturday evening.

Edward Meridy, 38, of 538 Columbus Ave., said he was driving in the 800 block of Pipestone Street 8 p.m. when a side car window was broken. A BB might have caused the damage, according to city police.

Woman Driver Injured

PAW PAW — A Saginaw woman was injured on Interstate 94 near her Sunday morning when her car rolled over.

Charlotte Burgess, 33, was listed in fair condition at St. Mary's Hospital in Saginaw after being transferred from Lake View Community Hospital in Paw Paw.

State police at Paw Paw said she was attempting to pass another car just east of County Road 651 when she apparently lost control of her car. It struck a reflector before rolling over, police said.

No one else was in her car at the time of the 7 a.m. accident. No tickets were issued, police said.

CHEVY CHEVETTE

IT'LL DRIVE YOU HAPPY! When our 4-passenger Chevy Chevette first hit the road two years ago, car buyers were quick to discover that it delivered a lot of car for the money. For 1978, you get even more in the Chevy Chevette. There's more sound insulation, more corrosion-resisting treatments across the line than in 1977 models. But, there's more. We've added equipment you might expect to pay extra for. Also new for '78 is our 4-Door Hatchback Sedan with the following equipment...and more:

CHEVETTE FEATURES INCLUDE...

- Delco-GM AM Radio.
- Sport Steering Wheel.
- Deluxe Instrument Panel.
- Center Console with Coin Pocket.
- Rear Seat That Folds Flat.
- White-Stripe Tires.
- Swing-Out Rear Window on Coupe.
- 1.6 Litre (98 Cu. In.) L4 Engine.
- Front Disc Brakes.

Alimony's Good; Johnny's Ex Won't Remarry

Q: I know Johnny Carson's ex-wife Joanne and Truman Capote are great buddies. Do you think Joanne will ever remarry? — E.O., Springfield, Ill.

A: It would be hard for her to do that. She'd have to give up the alimony she gets from Carson. Joanne seems to be content dating rather young Hollywood men.

Q: I thought Richard Dreyfuss was fantastic in "Jaws." But what movie does he think he was best in? Also, will we ever see him on the screen as a lover? — J.D., New London, Conn.

A: Richard's first romantic role is coming up in the soon-to-be released Neil Simon film "The Goodbye Girl." Dreyfuss has seen "Jaws" seven times and thinks it's the best thing he has ever done. Ironically, he wouldn't have ever made the film if he hadn't been so petrified that his performance in "The Apprenticeship of Duddy Kravitz" was so bad that no one would ever hire him again. Dreyfuss says he would gladly pay to do that performance over again.

Q: You've reported that there's trouble in the Carlo Ponti-Sophia Loren household. Is there another man in Sophia's life? — T.P., Houston.

A: There are two but they're young — Sophia's sons, Carlo Jr., 8, and Eduardo, 4. As for Carlo Sr., he has been seen on the party circuit from time to time with movie actress Edy Williams and writer Toni Amblar.

TODAY In History

By ASSOCIATED PRESS

Today is Monday, Oct. 3, the 266th day of 1977. There are 99 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history: On this date in 1952, the British exploded their first atomic bomb, in a test off the coast of Australia.

On this date:

In 1866, war between Austria and Italy was ended by the Treaty of Vienna.

In 1876, Johns Hopkins University opened in Baltimore.

In 1932, Iraq joined the League of Nations as a British mandate ended.

In 1935, Italian forces invaded Ethiopia.

In 1944, during World War II, U.S. troops cracked the Siegfried Line north of Aachen, Germany.

In 1964, Hurricane Hilda left more than 30 people dead as it roared across a nearly deserted coastal area west of New Orleans.

Ten years ago, North Vietnam rejected U.S. proposals for Vietnamese peace talks.

Five years ago, Premier Jens Otto Krag of Denmark resigned only a few hours after the Danes gave him a decisive political victory by overwhelmingly approving membership in the European Common Market.

One year ago, West German voters gave Chancellor Helmut Schmidt a greatly reduced majority in parliamentary elections, but he retained his office.

Today's birthdays: Writer Gore Vidal is 82 years old. Orchestra conductor Stanislaw Skrowaczewski is 54.

Thought for today: But words once spoke can never be recalled. — Wentworth Dillm, English poet, about 1833-1885.

SMC Plans Saturday Diesel Class

DOWAGIAC — A Saturday morning course in diesel engines will be offered at Southwestern Michigan College beginning Oct. 8, according to the school.

The course will run for 10 weeks and will meet from 8-11:30 a.m. The course will cover fundamentals of diesel operation, engine and fuel injection system design and construction. Special laboratory emphasis will be on fuel injectors and ignition systems. The course carries two hours of credit.

More information may be obtained on the course from the SMC continuing education office.

producers, Tom Capra and Richard Dieter, are collaborating on a book about Fidel Castro. Barbara's agent, William Morris, will handle the deal and the book will contain everything you ever wanted to know about Fidel, including what he eats for breakfast and how he keeps in shape.

Q: I heard that the disastrous movie "The Sorcerer" was going to be re-edited and then released again, but have heard nothing further. Was this rescue plan discarded? — M. O'B., Wheeling, W. Va.

A: As you know, that film starred Roy Scheider, who is currently in Florida making "Jaws 2." Well, Scheider's wife Cynthia, a very successful film editor, is over in England right now trying to salvage her husband's picture by taking it apart and putting it back together in the cutting room.

ART IMITATES LIFE: Bob Fosse, that wiz of a director who gave us "Cabaret" and the Dustin Hoffman film, "Lenny," had a severe heart attack several years ago. Now he's set to direct a big movie musical, "All That Jazz," about a director who's had a heart attack.

Q: Did ex-Queen Soraya — the Shah of Iran's former wife whom he divorced because she didn't give him a male heir — ever remarry? — B.Z., Knoxville, Tenn.

A: No, but word is that Soraya has a new man and they might marry this winter. He's a wealthy brewer named Louis Swarnbeck and at 32, ten years younger than the ex-queen.
